Cruel Cold, Powerful Tides Combine to Defeat Gallant Challengers of Stubborn Strait

Cruel cold and stubborn tides spelled-finis for two courageous challengers of the Strait of Juan de Fuca early this morning. At 3.20 a.m. ex-Marine Bert Thomas of Tacoma was pulled into his escort boat, still protesting he'd "beat it yet." As consolation, Thomas could claim longer time in Strait's chilly waters than any other swimmer. Shown with Bert seconds after he left the water are Lionel Dickson,

Thomas Still Strong After 10-Hour Ordeal

Bert Thomas proved amazing strength of his rugged 250-pound physique when he was able to chat with friends soon after his more than 10-hour ordeal in frigid Strait waters. Aboard his pilot vessel, the steam yacht Skeena, he talked with owner James Barber and skipper Ed Brownlee, showed little effects of his tough battle. (Times Photo by Strickland.)

Thomas May Make New Attempt This Week-End

Craig Ready To Appear Before Probe

Tofino logging operator Sammy Craig may appear before the Sloan forestry commission next week, according to his counsel, Victoria lawyer Arthur Burns.

Mr. Burns said Mr. Craig is prepared to appear before Chief Justice Gordon Sloan on "48 hours notice." One report is that Craig will be called on Wednesday.

Mr. Craig's appearance was demanded Thursday by former MLA Gordon Gibson, who earlier charged Craig with accepting 26,000,000 feet of timber from B.C. Forest Products to withdraw his appeal against the firm's forest management licence application.

Mr. Craig was quoted as stating Mr. Gibson's evidence was "untruthful," and Mr. Gibson demanded he appear to clear his name of "perjury."

Plane Lost in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Heavy rain and overcast this morning forced a ground party from Hope to take over the search for a light plane with one man aboard, missing on a 140-mile flight to Vancouver.

Name of the pilot was withheld until relatives were notified.

Reds Lift Blockade

BERLIN (UP)—The East German traffic ministry announced today the Soviet zone Communists will reduce their exorbitant tolls on trucks supplying West Berlin effective June 10.

EXPERTS DUBIOUS

Will Strait Ever Be Conquered?

Despite the courageous overnight attempts of Bert Thomas and Pat Russell, some experts are still dubious the Strait of Juan de Fuca can ever be crossed by a swimmer.

Archie McKinnon, who was Florence Chadwick's coach in the original Strait swim last year, said, "They both made a really valiant attempt. But I must be honest; I still think it is a bit too tough. But on that matter I would be quite happy to eat my hat."

A local pilotage authority, who asked that his name be withheld, said, "I must agree with the many people who say that the swim will never be made because of the cold. Both Thomas and Miss Russell did remarkably well but I think that is as close as anyone will ever come to swimming the Strait."

Harold Elworthy, president of Island Tug and Barge, declined comment on any indications the swim may have pointed out but said, "They both made a wonderful showing on a huge undertaking. I am particularly proud of Pat Russell, a Canadian girl who did so well in the face of a terrible ordeal."

Polar Plane Lands

AMSTERDAM (UP)—The Canadian Pacific Airlines' Empress of Amsterdam landed here today after a flight that spanned more than half the world from the Southern Pacific over the North Pole via Vancouver. The airliner landed at 3:19 p.m. (7:19 a.m. PDT).

'I Feel Too Good to Quit Now' He Says; Pat Russell May Try Again in Fall

(See Pages 3 and 13 for more pictures and detailed swim stories).

After the greatest effort made yet to conquer the bone-chilling Strait of Juan de Fuca Bert Thomas, the husky ex-marine from Tacoma, said today he'll make another attempt, possibly this week-end.

"I'm going at it again. I'm going Sunday if the weather is okay. If not Sunday I'll go Monday," he said.

Thomas finished more than 10 hours in the rugged Strait at 3.22 a.m. today, defeated by wind and tide rather than his own swimming ability and endurance.

He stayed in the water three hours longer than Pat Russell, the UBC co-ed, who took to the water an hour after he did late Friday in a dual challenge on the Strait which gripped the imagination of most Victorians.

Miss Russell was pulled from the water at 1.13 a.m. in a state of exhaustion and mild shock and spent the balance of the night in Jubilee Hospital as a precaution.

However, she suffered no serious ill-effects and her assistant coach, John McDiarmid, said:

"Pat's up and around at the hospital, hollering for us to come and get her."

He said there is a definite possibility she may try again, perhaps in the fall. Originally she planned only one attempt, but after doing so well might make another.

Although the Strait—labelled last year by Florence Chadwick as the "Mount Everest" of swims—remains unconquered, the overnight attempt gripped the imagination of thousands of Victorians.

Many stayed up half the night listening to "stroke by stroke" radio descriptions of the swim.

The amazing performance of Bert Thomas led many observers to believe that, given a real break on weather plus tides, he has a good chance to make the crossing.

He had thought he could make it in about 10 hours, but it appeared his pace was not quite fast enough to take full advantage of the tides.

Although he kept swimming more than that period he still had 7 or 8 miles to go when his navigator Hugh Evans called it off. He was about 12 miles off the Victoria waterfront at that time, but probably had covered considerably more distance through the water. Tide had

NOT BOTHERED

"The water was ideal until the last three hours. The cold didn't bother me at all."

Both swimmers were eligible for the Times $1,000 prize, posted for the first swimmer to make the crossing.

Weather conditions at starting time—early Friday evening—were the best for any Strait attempt since the Times and Bapco Paint sponsored Florence Chadwick's try last year. Unlike Flo, they met no choppy seas during the first hours of the race.

But after midnight, the wind made up, and a stiff chop added to the difficulties both swimmers encountered with tides.

Eden Drafts Back-to-Work Plea As Rail-Strike Layoffs Soar

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden today was drafting a "back to work" appeal to striking railwaymen whose week-old walkout is tightening a strangle grip on British industry.

The prime minister addresses the nation by radio Sunday night from his country estate at Chequers.

Informed sources said he will plead with 70,000 striking railroad engineers and firemen to end the transportation tie-up that is leading to mass unemployment.

More than 250,000 workers in industries ranging from steel works to perambulator factories are on dismissal notices due to the strike.

Negotiations between the railroad unions and the nationalized railway management were still deadlocked today and neither side planned any new move over the week-end.

Individual Britons, meanwhile, were "pitching in" to ease the crisis.

The Earl of Lanesborough, who owns his own model railroad, offered today to drive real trains.

The 36-year-old nobleman said he learned railroading as an army officer during Second World War.

The British transport commission turned down the offer with thanks.

The government has not yet ordered the use of troops or volunteers to run the railroads.

SIU SUES RAYMENT FOR $100,000 LIBEL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Suit for $100,000 slander damages was launched in supreme court here today by officers of the Seafarers' International Union of North America (AFL-TLC) Canadian District, against Percy Rayment, secretary of Victoria Trades and Labor Council.

The claim, filed by Derek G. G. Lepage, concerns a statement alleged to have been made by Mr. Rayment at a meeting of the Trades and Labor Council in Victoria on April 6.

SIU officers who are suing Rayment personally and for the union are Norman George Cunningham, Donald Ward O'Reilly, Harry Taylor and Roderick Heinekey, all of Vancouver.

UAW 'Bites' On Ford Plan

DETROIT (UP)—The CIO United Auto Workers today offered to accept Ford Motor Company's proposal for a $55,000,000 job security fund if the company would agree to arbitrate certain differences between the two sides. (See also Page 25.)

IN PARLIAMENT

Philpott Suggests Pensioners, Vets Get Surplus Butter

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

The government's controversial butter price-support program has been both challenged and defended in the Commons and a suggestion aired that surpluses be given to Canada's needy pensioners and veterans.

Criticism was from Ross Thatcher (Ind., Moose Jaw-Lake Centre), who said Friday the support price of 58 cents a pound wholesale is too high for the good of consumer, taxpayer and producer.

The program, he added, has resulted in the accumulation of record surpluses, costing taxpayers millions of dollars. Yet it was leading thousands of Canadians to switch to margarine, placing the butter industry in a serious predicament.

Many Proposals Discussed

The wide-ranging discussion dealt with the plight of the farmer generally as members considered agriculture department estimates. They spoke for five hours but didn't get past the first item—the minister's salary.

Proposals ranged from schemes to prevent flooding in Manitoba to crop insurance and steps to give farmers a larger share of national income.

John Charlton (PC, Brantford) defended the government's butter policy and criticized those who attack subsidies, recalling that the government subsidizes the gold industry, too.

Victor Quelch (SC, Acadia) proposed the government underwrite an all-risk crop-insurance scheme for Canadian farmers.

A. M. Nicholson (CCF, MacKenzie) and H. A. Bryson (CCF, Humboldt, Meaford) said farmers are entitled to a fair share of national income. The government should take steps to provide them with parity or fair prices and invoke other measures to stabilize the farm economy.

W. G. Weir (L, Portage, Neepawa) proposed federal building of a $60,000,000 dam at Russell, Man., to help prevent flooding by the Assiniboine River. The dam was a number of proposals by a survey commission set up after the 1950 Winnipeg flood.

During full flow times of the Assiniboine, Weir said, the reservoir would reach back into the province of Saskatchewan about 50 miles. He suggested the project would reduce flooding, make more water available during dry periods, and increase the water supplies of the cities of Brandon and Portage la Prairie.

Royal Commission for Radio, TV?

Appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate possible major revamping of radio and television broadcasting policies was forecast today.

There were several indications the government might be planning study of a major overhaul of basic policy, as the special Commons radio committee completed a long and wide-ranging investigation of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

The committee now has to prepare a report to parliament. The report is expected to have a strong bearing on any government decision about the commission.

West Coast Liberal Tom Goode, a severe critic of the CBC, pointed out the growing feeling Friday in and out of parliament that it is time for a review of the policy that gives the CBC authority over private stations with which it competes.

Revenue Minister J. J. McCann, through whom the CBC reports to parliament, provided one clue that the government was seriously considering appointing a commission.

The committee voted to prevent Donald Fleming, PC-Toronto, to Eglinton, from asking CBC board of governors chairman A. Davidson Dunton about future financial operations of the publicly-owned corporation. McCann said Fleming's questions "did not take into account what would be the policy in the event of a board of inquiry into CBC policy."

Goode, argued that "CBC policy is set by this government and in the face of a likelihood that this policy will change, Mr. Dunton should not be questioned in this line."

He told chairman Dr. Pierre Gauthier, L-Portneuf, later that "some of us are very anxious that a royal commission be appointed." Goode wanted a definite and immediate answer from the government.

That answer would have to come from the floor of the house, Gauthier said, "if it comes."

Fishmen Buck High-Level Dams In Proposed Fraser River Hydro

OTTAWA (CP)—Fisheries Minister Sinclair said Friday that high-level power dams of British Columbia's Fraser river "are out."

He told reporters that the international Pacific salmon fisheries commission is concerned about plans for damming the Fraser, probably the last major salmon river in the world.

Four commission members met Friday for half an hour with Prime Minister St. Laurent and heard Gen. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, describe tentative plans for power-harnessing the Fraser.

Gen. McNaughton told the Commons external affairs committee earlier this week there is a "reasonable prospect" that at least 26,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity can be produced by diverting the Kootenay river into the Columbia and the Columbia into the Fraser.

Mr. Sinclair said "whole-hearted co-operation" between the $30,000,000-a-year salmon fishing industry and power interests will be required to work out a solution to the problem. But the fishing industry would not pay for construction.

Alan Young Quitting TV For Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Vancouver's Alan Young is reversing the usual trend—he's quitting television for the movies.

The Canadian comic has had a checkered career in TV. Five years ago he made his debut with "The Alan Young Show" over CBS and it was a smash hit. After a season or two the variety format began to pale. "You just can't sustain a vaudeville show every week," he explained.

He experimented with other formats and was pushed into the role of playing the little fellow who is kicked around by life. That didn't wear well either.

HAS HAD OTHER OFFERS
Young, now finishing up a contract with NBC, says he is winding up his TV career for now. He has had other opportunities, notably an offer to star in James Thurber stories based on a Walter Mitty type of character.

"But I didn't think you can sustain that kind of idea week after week," he said. "I'm going to lay off TV."

"It seems to me the industry is entering a period of transition. I don't know exactly where it is going. It might be that pay-as-you-see TV is coming in. Possibly the spectacular will take over. I don't know. But I think there are going to be some big changes."

"Right now it appears that no show can last more than five years. I don't want merely a five-year career. So I'm going to sit back and wait."

Cutworms Hit Wheat

REGINA (CP)—Voracious army of cutworms are chewing their way through thousands of acres of new grain crop on the southern prairie, the provincial government said today. The infestation extends over 10,000 acres of southern Saskatchewan. Val-Marie west of Coalinga, with most damage in the Estend area.

A foreign office spokesman said further study of the Russian-Yugoslav declaration also confirmed "that the Yugoslav government has no intention of weakening its close and friendly relations with the Western powers."

HEADLINES OF THE WEEK

ONE FOOT IN GRAVE SINCE 1880, NOW 92

PATCHOGUE, N.Y. (AP)—Michael J. Kane, who likes to tell about having one foot in the grave since 1880, celebrated his 92nd birthday today.

One night when he was 17 he was in a group serenading a newly-married couple and was wounded in the right foot when a shotgun—brought along by another young fellow as a noise-maker—went off by accident.

Kane's condition became so critical that his parents bought a cemetery plot for him. But an amputation above the ankle saved him. His parents buried the foot instead.

Egypt Threatens War If Jews Attack Gaza

CAIRO (Reuters)—Egypt's prime minister, Gamal Abdel Nasser, has warned Israel through the United Nations truce chief, Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, that if Israel attacks the Gaza sector "this means war."

"If war starts it will not be as it was in 1948," the prime minister is reported to have told Burns during their talks in Cairo.

"This time I will not allow the Egyptian army to be fooled by decisions for an armistice on a cease-fire issued from New York (UN headquarters) and respected by one side only."

Burns is reported to have told Nasser the border situation is "serious."

NEW MODERATOR—The 51st general assembly of Presbyterian Church of Canada, meeting in Toronto, elected Dr. Walter T. McCree, seen above as its moderator, to succeed Rev. J. L. W. McLean of Victoria.

McCree, 75-year-old native of Sunderland, Eng., who retired last year after spending 22 years as pastor of a Toronto church, defeated only other nominee, Dr. John Logan-Veneta, of Ottawa, by only six votes, in one of the closest elections ever recorded by assembly.

SAIGON (CP)—The main force of the Ho-Hao rebel army engaged troops of the Vietnamese national army for the first time overnight in a surprise raid at the Bacca River, 77 miles southwest of here.

Troops of Ho-Hao warlord Gen. Tran Van Soai struck at government forces guarding both sides of the river, said the government news agency Viet Nam Presse.

It was reported that the Vietnamese soldiers repulsed the attack but suffered three killed.

The Ho-Hao is one of the three major private armies in South Viet Nam. Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, who has been trying to assert his firm control over the country, has already clashed violently with one of the others, the Binh Xuyen. The Binh Xuyen were driven out of Saigon in bloody fighting last month.

CITY SCOUTS Receive Awards For Training

At a meeting of the Akela council (district Cubmasters) Thursday evening, Boy Scout District Commissioner George Barr presented preliminary training cards to Rita Oliver, Norman Tipper, Jean Summer, Helen Lomas, Mary Coulter, and Margaret Miller.

Certificates indicating completion of part one of the three-part Gilwell training course went to Margaret Coulter and Harry Ward. Gilwell beads for completion of the Cubmaster course were presented to Ken Waterman.

DULLES TO HEAR CHOU PEACE PLAN

Nehru Envoy, Now in London, Will Unwrap 3-Point Proposal in Washington Talks

LONDON (UP)—India's roving "peace" envoy, Krishna Menon, is seeking Prime Minister Eden's views on a three-point compromise cease-fire plan for Formosa which is reported to have Red China's approval, informed sources disclosed today.

They said the plan calls for the evacuation of the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu by the Nationalists and a renunciation by both Nationalists and Communists of force, plus a conference to finally settle the conflict.

By DONALD J. GONZALES

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—India's Krishna Menon will confer with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles here next week on his talks in Peiping and London, the White House announced today.

The announcement came after Dulles held an hour-long White House conference with President Eisenhower.

Menon conferred recently with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai on efforts to reduce Far Eastern tensions. The discussion included the Formosa crisis and the release of American fliers held by Red China.

Menon has not been regarded as a warm friend of the United States.

The United States would prefer that some other channel of negotiations be worked out with Red China on Far Eastern problems. But diplomatic informants said the White House does not want to pass up any chance, through any channel, to test Red China's sincerity on wanting to ease Far Eastern tensions.

Dulles conferred with the President just before flying to Columbia, S.C., for a week-end visit with chairman James P. Richards (D.S.C.) of the House foreign affairs committee.

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru of India left by air for Bombay today on the first leg of a "tension-reducing" two-week visit to Moscow.

He is expected to urge Russian leaders to exercise restraint on Communist China in the Far East during his meetings with the Communist party secretary, Nikita Khrushchev, and Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

Nehru will also visit Austria, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Italy.

Exhausted End Follows Confident Start as Challengers Tackle Calm But Frigid Strait

PAT RUSSELL APPEARED TO BE SEMI-CONSCIOUS and swimming automatically before she was hauled into her escort boat on orders of her doctor. She ignored a lifebelt tossed to her, and had to be pulled in by hand, completely exhausted and numb with cold.

PAT WOULDN'T QUIT

Finish of Swim 'Brutal, Pathetic'

By DENNY BOYD

Pat Russell did just what she promised to do. She swam until she had to be pulled away from the icy clutches of Juan de Fuca Strait.

The courageous 18-year-old university freshman, her strength sapped and her mind clouded by the bone-piercing cold of the Strait, was dragged from the water at 1.13 a.m. Saturday morning, seven hours and 18 minutes after entering the water near Gonzales Bay at 5.55 p.m.

In that time, Miss Russell swam nine and one-half miles from her starting point. She actually swam a greater distance (possibly 12 to 14 miles) but her progress was hampered by a steady wind that ranged from six miles per hour to gusts of 12 miles per hour.

'You'll Have to Pull Me Out'

Before the swim started Miss Russell told the members of her coaching party: "I'll never quit, if you want me to come out of the water you had better pull me out."

Miss Russell lived up to her vow, refusing to take a lifebuoy thrown to her from her tiny coaching boat, even though she was entirely incapable of continuing.

Dr. Stanley Britten of Vancouver, following Miss Russell's progress from the bow of the coaching boat, reached quickly over the gunwale and took the girl's arm, probably preventing her from slipping under the slight chop.

Shivering violently and alternately moaning and sobbing, Miss Russell was transferred to

Her Speech Garbled, Mushy

The end of the swim was both pathetic and brutal.

Miss Russell was unable to steer a straight course with her coaching boat, the first indication that she was meeting with difficulties.

Her speech was garbled and mushy as a result of her facial muscles freezing up from the cold of the water and constant head wind.

At 12.05 a.m., her coaching boat broke, an oar and was forced to pull away from Miss Russell to pick up an extra oar from the Black Dog.

In a voice faint with exhaustion, Miss Russell cried out: "How much further...? Will I make it?... I can't see... where is everyone...?"

The return of the coaching boat and the slight push of a thrashed her arms and legs, believing she was still in the water. She suffered convulsive cramps and violent trembling as she began to emerge from the state of shock brought on by the cold and exhaustion.

Dr. Britten said: "It was the cold that did it; we could tell by her voice in the last few minutes. She was unable to do anything."

Trainer Freddy McDermott said: "We had to take her out. In another couple of minutes, she'd have gone under. She worked hard but it just wasn't to be. She's a wonderful, brave girl."

McDermott said that in the event of Miss Russell ever making another attempt, it would not be a night swim because of the difficulties in following the swimmer.

Periodically, Miss Russell

Dejection, Semi-Consciousness

On the way back to Victoria, Miss Russell alternated between periods of dejection and semi-consciousness. At one point she relaxed completely and said, "Oh fiddlely-diddlely—now we'll have to go through the whole thing all over again. Is it alright if I go in again tomorrow?" Minutes later she sobbed uncontrollably asking "Why did you let me quit?"

To the cheers of a large crowd of well-wishers, Miss Russell started her swim with a blistering 50-stroke-a-minute spurt that sent her skimming through the rain-dappled water, which was as flat as a mill pond in the early going.

She removed her goggles soon after starting and by 7.30, she was maintaining a steady 44-stroke through the 48-degree water.

She called out and joked frequently with the accompanying boats. By 8 p.m., slightly more than two hours after starting, she had covered a brisk four miles and her strong arms were coming high out of the water

'TOUGH ONE'

New Aspirant Gave Swimmers 'Best of Luck'

By RON COULTER

Another Juan de Fuca Strait challenger was on hand at take-off time Friday night to wish swimmers Bert Thomas and Pat Russell "the best of luck."

Mrs. Ann Mundigel Meraw, 36, Vancouver; her manager, Pat Roach, Toronto swim coach, and her father, William Mundigel, Sidney, scrambled over the rocks and beach to see the two challengers leave shore.

Introduced to Mrs. Meraw, Thomas said: "I wish you a lot of luck when you try. This is a tough one."

Then the two posed for photographers.

"Best of luck to you," Mrs. Meraw shouted as Thomas walked into the water.

A firm hand-clasp was the greeting with Miss Russell.

JULY ATTEMPT

Mrs. Meraw, who has been swimming professionally since 1934, plans to make her attempt in mid-July.

Thomas hit the water at Horseshoe Bay at 5.05 p.m. The pretty co-ed stroked off Foul Bay 51 minutes later.

Their take-offs were in direct contrast.

PAT SHY

Thomas was perhaps over-confident, Miss Russell appeared shy.

About 250 people lined the steep bank above Horseshoe Bay to see Thomas start. Close to 400 fans, many crowding the shoreline, watched Miss Russell make her attempt.

Thomas swam from his small boat to shore to touch land before leaving. Miss Russell came in to the rear of a Foul Bay home in a row boat.

WADED OUT

Thomas waded out to his shoulders before starting to side-stroke his way out of the bay. Miss Russell dived off a rock step and bricked headed out for open water with a powerful crawl stroke.

Rain was falling as both challengers started their swims. The water was calm.

Thomas, making his second Strait try, was in a gay mood before he left.

"I've been waiting a long time for this kind of water. I've been waiting a year," the ex-marine said.

"This feels like a warm bath after 44 degrees—I feel fine."

"I'm away. So long."

Several fans shouted encouragement as Thomas left shore.

Miss Russell had no words for her fans. She came in to shore, smiled for photographers and then plunged into the water.

indicated Miss Russell was six miles out and was dropping slightly behind the planned schedule because of the wind. Trial Island was dead astern.

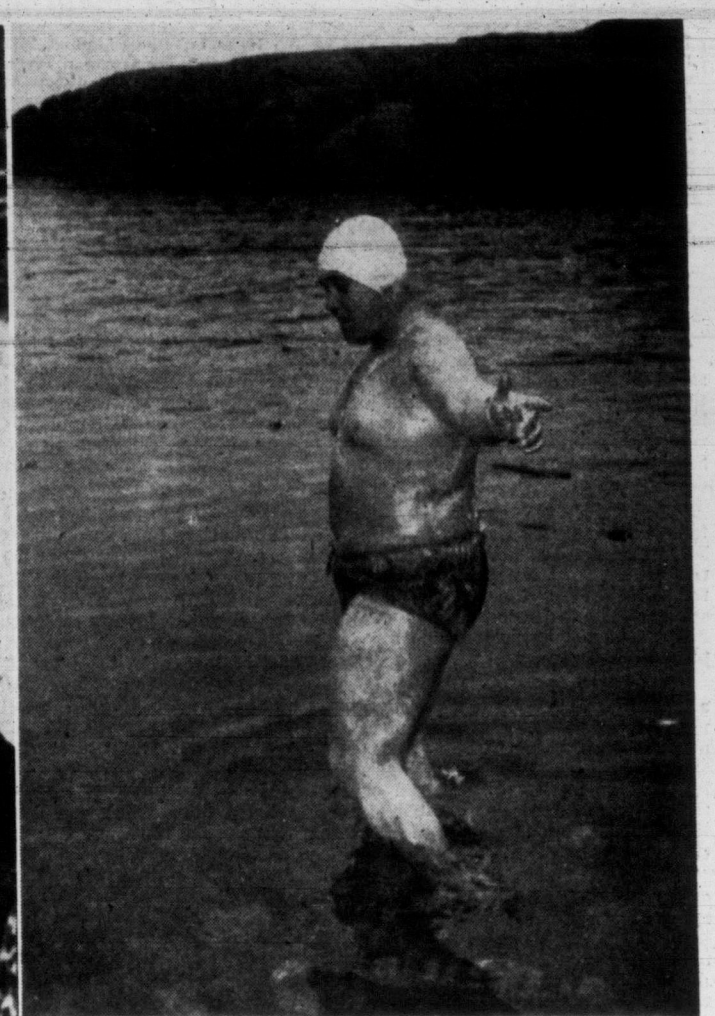

Seen through night binoculars, Miss Russell was still hitting her calculated 48 stroke pace and she told her coaching boat that she could see the lights of Port Angeles.

The approximate halfway mark was reached at midnight with the wind increasing to 12 miles per hour. From that point on, Miss Russell made little progress. She swam almost as far in the first two hours as she did in the other five.

When the oar broke at 12.05, it marked the beginning of the end of the brave girl's courageous try.

CONFIDENCE WAS THE ORDER OF THE EVENING when Pat Russell and Bert Thomas commenced their attacks on Juan de Fuca Strait Friday. Navigators for the two swimmers decided tide conditions were right; weather appeared to be perfect. Thomas (right), entered the water at 5.03 p.m.; Pat at 5.55 p.m. Both received last-minute wishes for success from Mrs. Anne Meraw, of Vancouver, shown shaking hands with Pat. Mrs. Meraw arrived here Friday to begin training for a Strait attempt in late July or early August.

BOTH PAT AND BERT STOKED STRONGLY at start of the swim attempt, exchanged wise-cracks with the crews of accompanying boats, and conveyed cheery messages to each other via their escorts. Pat left the shore near Gonzales Bay, and a large crowd trampled over residential lawns in the Hollywood Crescent area to get a glimpse of the UBC student as she took off. A smaller group watched Thomas start out from Horseshoe Bay. (Times Photos by Bill Halkett, Irving Strickland and Roy Strable.)

TOP STUNT PILOT TO PERFORM

Big Comox Air Show to Mark Air Force Day

The biggest and most elaborate air show ever staged on Vancouver Island will be held at Comox RCAF Station on June 11.

The show is to mark Air Force Day which is being observed throughout Canada next Saturday.

A highlight of the show will be the bombing of a ground target by a simulated enemy aircraft, followed by a Canadian CF 100 "Canuck" all weather jet interceptor "shooting down" the enemy aircraft.

In addition there will be aerobatics staged by Canada's top stunt pilot, parachute jumps and the flying of an experimental sail plane.

The show includes a display of radar airborne and ground equipment; safety photographic telecommunication equipment, and a rain-making machine.

Children will be provided with entertainment, such as free rides on a "rocket ship."

Squad-Ldr. J. E. Drake, chief operations officer at Comox, who is in charge of the show, said today provisions have been made to entertain some 15,000 persons at the show.

BEST YET "We expect thousands to attend the show from Victoria as well as from other island centres," he said. "The show will be the best the RCAF has staged on the Island."

The program will start at 1.30 p.m., with a rocket display and a mobile equipment parade around the airfield, followed by the take-off of a Canco aircraft by rocket assistance.

There will then be a flypast over Comox of 23 aircraft, which will include Lancasters, Mitchells, Mustangs, T-3 and CF-100 jets, Expeditors, Harvards, Vampires, Dakotas and Cancos.

The aerobatics will be staged by F/O Jerry Gagne, who has thrilled thousands in Canada and Europe with his stunts.

Over One Big Hurdle

THE WASHINGTON STATE Ferries vessel Kalakala has assured Victoria and Port Angeles of the service both ports need to handle heavy summer tourist traffic. For the craft's transfer to the cross-strait run this community should be deeply grateful.

That gratitude should be extended not only to the Washington State Ferries. It should go, also, to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce for spearheading the campaign to secure adequate service, and to those individuals and agencies which supported the chamber.

The Black Ball line emerges in a more favorable light, too, from the new arrangement. It has made available its docking facilities under terms which appear reasonable and by that action, has offset some of the unfavorable reaction created by the abrupt announcement of the Chinook's withdrawal.

The present plan should be generally advantageous. Washington State Ferries, with their other contacts in the state, are in a position to encourage travel over the Port Angeles-Victoria route, thereby deriving direct benefit themselves while providing this city with the advantages of not merely a ferry, but the tourist publicity of an entire organization.

It must be recognized, of course, that the new arrangements, valuable as they are to Victoria, do not solve the underlying transportation problem of this community. The Kalakala will meet a summer tourist need. No one will be inclined to discount its importance. It will, moreover, complete the link in a loop service from Washington at Port Angeles, through Victoria and Sidney back to Washington at Anacortes.

A Neighbor's Thanks

DURING DISCUSSIONS ON THE ferry issue, here Victorians became increasingly aware of the fact that Port Angeles is something more than a jeweled centerpiece in a necklace of lights across the Strait of Juan de Fuca at night. It is more than the destination of distance swimmers.

It is the home of several thousand excellent people who have hopes and problems often the same as ours. Conceivably Victoria could express fellowship with folk across the

But, having overcome a serious obstacle by gaining satisfactory connections with Port Angeles, where does Victoria go next in its attempt to solve the continuing problem of adequate water transport to and from the Mainland on a year-round basis?

This capital has lost business to Nanaimo and has been weakened by that loss.

The two cities are in competitive positions. Victoria has at least the advantage of a large population. With its surroundings it represents one-half of the entire total for the Island and is close to other substantial areas of settlement. To date it has made little progress to win back the trade which it once assumed was a natural right, but which now goes through the mid-Island port.

Perhaps the capital can learn something from the Port Angeles-Victoria ferry service issue. If this city and its representatives had accepted the curtailed cross-strait traffic as inevitable, if it had done nothing but view the matter with dignified regret, the Kalakala would not be scheduled to start service by the middle of the month.

"Victoria did not sit back on this one. It fought. And because it fought, under good leadership, it has overcome at least temporarily one phase of its problem."

The lesson seems obvious. By transferring to a diet of more red meat, Victoria could accomplish a great deal that it is not accomplishing at present. The city can, of course, maintain an attitude of dignified acquiescence. But if it does, it will be shoved more into the backwater—and backwaters have a tendency to become stagnant.

Strait by arranging a mass visit, with civic and other dignitaries, when the Kalakala service starts in another fortnight.

Our friends in Port Angeles should be acquainted with the fact that we consider them something more than the mouth of a funnel channeling tourists to this part of the Island. And a mass visit of that type would be an excellent and practical way of showing the Washington State Ferries our appreciation for the way they have stepped into the breach.

Great Examples of Courage

ONCE MORE THE COLD, THE winds and the tides of the Strait of Juan de Fuca have proved too much for two gallant challengers.

Pat Russell, the UBC student who has a very considerable record as a swimmer behind her, was forced out after more than seven hours in the water. Bert Thomas, the rugged Tacoma ex-marine stayed with the ordeal for over 10 hours before abandoning his attempt.

In both cases the challengers showed courage and endurance that has won warm admiration from thousands. But the Strait remains unconquered.

It is still the Everest of swims, and Everest remained unscalped by great figures in the alpine world until Sir Edmund Hillary and Tenzing accomplished their triumph. Before them came the Mallories and others of that great fraternity.

So, too, with Juan de Fuca. Under certain conditions and by certain people the Strait may be conquered. Until the right person comes along at the right time, the challenge remains.

Today, as they recover from the gruelling punishment they have absorbed, Miss Russell and Mr. Thomas may find some comfort in the respect they have earned by their splendid attempts. Whatever may have defeated them, it was not lack of courage.

Education Dampens the Flame

THE CANADIAN FORESTRY ASSOCIATION recently issued an encouraging report on the way motorists and campers are becoming less hazardous to the woods.

In the 10-year period from 1944 to 1954, that association states, the number of fires caused by neglected campfires and thoughtlessly discarded cigar and cigarette butts dropped from 50 per cent to 31 per cent of the overall total. The figure still isn't good enough, but it's better.

The trend becomes increasingly encouraging when note is taken of the vast increase in automobile traffic on highways adjacent to forests—the number of B.C. motor vehicle licences issued in 1954 was six times that of 1925. And it is still more impressive when cognizance is taken of the fact that thousands of campers and vacationists throng the woods now where there were hundreds only a relatively few years ago.

Publicity and education are paying off. More people are causing less damage through fire. The outlook is brighter, but it will never be satisfactory until all forest conflagrations caused by campers and smoking motorists are eliminated.

Meddling With Medals—A Row Over Rows

From The Times (London)

THE fact, or anyhow, the widespread belief, that women are impressed by uniforms has for centuries mitigated the rigors of military service. But there is a lot of difference between a uniform with a man inside it and a uniform hanging up in the wardrobe or sprawled over the back of an armchair waiting to have a button sewn on.

Marital splendor may exercise a powerful attraction on the ballroom floor; but when—partly, perhaps, as a consequence of its allure—a lady finds herself in a position where she is expected to look after the stuff, her views on uniform are apt to undergo a change.

The chain mail, the treads, the froggings and gorgets and sword-knots—the care of all this unwieldy, moth-haunted panoply seems a duty more properly performed by the custodian of a museum than by a housewife.

Fortunately, most soldiers are not required to appear very frequently in full dress uniform, and battledress is comparatively easy to look after. If, however, a soldier has been awarded any decorations, it is normally regarded as being his wife's responsibility to sew the ribbons on to what the Army insists on calling his blouse.

She must, she is made to realize, resist the temptation to rearrange these pretty accessories in the interests of chic, and if her husband's service has been so intrepid or so meritorious that he has two rows of ribbons, it was essential (she was until recently enjoined) that the longer row should be on top.

A few months ago War Office policy underwent one of those volte-faces, as startling as it was complete, to which it has always been liable; and today the regulations require that the shorter row of ribbons should be on top and the longer underneath. This is the sort of thing that does the War Office more harm than it realizes.

At the best of times soldiers wives regard it with a distrust and abhorrence

As Our Readers See It

NEWFOUNDLAND JOURNEY

I wish to congratulate Mr. Bruce Hutchison for his timely article on Newfoundland.

Mr. Hutchison is perfectly right "that one can find no kinder people than the islanders in Newfoundland."

However, I must add, in his article he failed to mention some of the most important points. For example, the baby-size seats in the train. And the upper berth which he was in was merely big enough to accommodate an eight-year-old child. He had to lie down in an "L" shape in order to pack himself up.

When this writer was there a few months ago he had to share a seat with a plump man who must have weighed over 250 pounds. Naturally he occupied the whole seat. I couldn't sit on his lap, so I was left standing up for a long time in an overcrowded car. Fortunately three hours after the train started I was given an upper berth. This time I had a chance to pack myself up like a lobster in a car, and my stature is small.

Planes grounded on account of foggy weather are not unusual in Newfoundland. Sometimes this kind of adverse condition lasts several months. Passengers who travel from the mainland by air to the island can get only as far as Stephenville, from there they will be transferred by taxi to Cornerbrook to catch the slow train to St. John's and other points.

I have often heard grudging remarks like these: "Apparently CNR has enough money to build a $21,000,000 hotel in Montreal, but it couldn't provide any money to improve its railway." Another one complained: "Which is more important, to build a huge luxurious hotel or a better railway system?"

At any rate some improvements have been made on the CNR in Newfoundland after the Island joined confederation. But these improvements are not enough to provide comforts and conveniences.

WHY DON'T DOCTORS OBJECT?

I have just come from the Provincial Library, where I read something which pleased me very much in the Burnaby Advertiser of May 12. The Editor of that paper has come clean out against putting poison fluorine in the Burnaby drinking water. I have wondered why our editors here had not done some objecting to it.

Any editor who has the courage to speak his own mind on this serious matter has the people's interest at heart. If it comes to a vote I sincerely hope that the vote will include not only rate-payers, but everyone who lives and pays rent in Burnaby. This is a poisonous matter, and is a crime against all people who live in our present day.

I wonder why some doctors do not come out against it, yes, and some dentists. Surely there are some who are against it.

May I suggest to the Burnaby people to do as the editor says "We Would Vote No." In closing may I say it looks like a scheme to help the doctors, dentists or even the undertakers out. Some say it will injure the older people most.

PREOCCUPATION WITH POLITICS

In a recent item in the press I note under the caption: "New PUC Member Needn't Be Secret." That Premier Bennett is reported as having said that the successor to Russell E. Potter of the Public Utilities Commission need not be a member of the so-called "Social Credit" party and continued that the new members of the B.C. Power Commission were not members of that party "or even a former Tory."

We, the normal citizens of British Columbia, who have had to look on as the funny claims concerning the Kaiser Dam have been spread and have noted by the press that parts of the location of the projected PCE have been surveyed at unnecessary expense to the province, cannot help but wonder why a busy premier should take time to find out the political views of able prospective civil servants. It sounds bad!

We are convinced that:

1. If the members of the cabinet had consulted their experienced deputies and experts more before making commitments and public statements and
2. If they had not contrived to lose so many of these men and members of the Power Commission, of the Water Rights Board and engineers there would have been fewer statements such as that attributed to one minister: "If they (the Pacific Northwest) will not take our gas we won't let them have our water."

It is quite possible that if the pre-Social Credit plans had been consulted there would not have been the long delay in bringing the Peace River gas to the Pacific Coast. The delay is supposed to cause a loss to the province of more than a million dollars per annum.

We believe also that the ex-engineers could have saved British Columbia, and Canada, all the foolishness of the Kaiser dam controversy and the international feeling which the matter has engendered.

which they make no effort to conceal. They believe it to be an institution staffed by a number of idle and ill-disposed embusques, whose principal aim in life is to blight their husbands' military career.

When they are not posting him, at the shortest possible notice, to unsuitable appointments in remote and insalubrious parts of the world, they are rejecting, after the longest possible delays, his claim that he is entitled to this allowance or to that in respect of some term of duty which he completed the year before last.

Motivated, as they believe, by an almost insane jealousy of their husbands' natural abilities, the War Office seem to regimental wives an organization for which there is nothing to be said; and in imposing on them—as usual without explanation or apology—the task of unstitching their husbands' medal-ribbons and sewing them on again in a slightly different pattern, the Army Council has done itself no good at all.

The House of the Potters

ST. JOHN, N.B.—A casual visitor, writing under my name some twelve years ago, pronounced St. John an ugly city and apparently that opinion rankled. Nevertheless, the natives received me with kindness and hoped I had changed my mind on closer inspection.

Alas, no. But as one of the residents explained, in what I considered an apt phrase, there is a "haunting and tragic beauty" about the place, if you have an artist's eye to see it.

If St. John is not beautiful it is unique—a city somehow built on naked rock, confronting the winds and tides and fogs of Fundy. It stands unshakable and serene, with weather-beaten face and indomitable heart. And only a few miles away lies some of the loveliest land in Canada.

THIS land was re-discovered a few years ago by a Danish scholar, Kjeld Deichmann, who came to farm a fat little valley. Fortunately for Canada, he was an artist and a practical craftsman, and the farm, therefore, lay neglected, while he plunged into artistic creation. Hence the Deichmann pottery, now famous all over America.

It took me some time to find it, as if its owner had carefully concealed it from the world. I had to drive several miles on a gravel road, to cross a river (with an unappealing name) on a crude ferry and then to drive again through a suburb of Arcady. At last I came to the strangest house in all Canada.

MR. Deichmann and his beautiful wife, Erica, started to build a farm house, transformed it into a pottery, added a room, or two at random and went on from there, until the place has a complicated geography, of varying levels. Meanwhile they had gone about the country buying up old furniture of native wood, which no native valued, had stripped off generations of paint and produced a collection of rare antiques.

To them they added the exquisite pottery designed by Mrs. Deichmann and moulded by her husband, until they were surrounded and almost submerged in ceramics of every sort. Thus, when they insisted on us staying to supper, we ate off plates fit for the Queen and cut of precious cups drank a native cocktail composed of gin and New Brunswick cider—a new Martini which should be patented.

It is always these immigrants who best appreciate the good things of Canada. We need them to awaken us to our own treasure.

They found Canadian clay to make their pottery. They took their designs from our native deer, frogs and flowers. Fascinated by the legendry of this country, from the times of the Indians and first explorers, they have compiled a library of Canadians such as you will seldom find in any Canadian home—books, pottery, painting and wood carvings in every corner of this many-chambered house, and more masterpieces appearing all the time from the potter's wheel, from the drawing board, the easel and the carver's bench. This is, in short, a kind of Canadian Renaissance hidden away in the New Brunswick hills.

MR. Deichmann, a quiet man with ruddy face, crowned by an aura of white curls, had finished a hard day but when I expressed interest he opened up his shop and showed me how pottery is made.

Under his delicate fingers a crude lump of brown clay suddenly rose up a foot high into a superb vase. With a touch he altered its whole shape, cut it down to a squat bowl and built it up again. Almost like a living thing the clay grew under his hands.

Then it will be glazed by his wife, whose cunning paint brush will garnish it with designs as the fancy moves her. After that it will be cooked at a temperature of some three thousand degrees, if I remember rightly, and will emerge in shiny, or dull perfection.

INCIDENTALLY, I discovered that the pebbled effect, which is unique to this pottery, is the result of an accident. Mrs. Deichmann made a mistake one day in mixing the glaze, and when the pottery came from the fire it was almost covered with white globules. She was disappointed and annoyed until she realized that a new ceramic had been born, like many things, by misadventure.

We sat late in this treasure house beside a crackling fire and listened on the gramophone to a collection of French-Canadian and Newfoundland folk songs, so haunting that I felt the invisible substance of Canada suddenly penetrating this forgotten valley—thanks to some Danish immigrants of genius who love their adopted land better than most natives.

They have brought us something precious and, with the wide world open to people of their talent, they will remain here and crystallize their dreams, far from the main road but very close to Canada.

A PEEK AT OTTAWA

By VICTOR MACKIE

Another Attempt to Build the Gas Line

REPORTS that a new proposition for supplying prairie markets and the markets of Ontario and Quebec with Alberta gas may come out of meetings between Trade Minister Howe and representatives of Canadian and American gas pipeline companies, have aroused intense interest in political circles.

In view of the major cabinet battle that developed over the last proposition Mr. Howe sought to have accepted by the Federal Government there is mounting speculation as to what will happen in cabinet this time.

There are indications that the minister is not likely to encounter strenuous opposition to the new plan. It does not involve financial assistance from the government. It does, however, apparently involve a shift in federal policy.

That policy as enunciated in the Commons, March 13, 1953, at page 2930 of Hansard, was a "Canada Always" policy. It would bar the export of large quantities of Canadian gas in the belief that an all-Canada pipeline from Alberta to Ontario and Quebec was economically feasible.

The new proposition is said to involve the sale of Alberta gas to an American company, Tennessee Transmission at Emerson, Man. That company would build a pipeline across the northern United States to hook up to its present system and supply Toronto, and ultimately Montreal, from Niagara. The all-Canada line would come later.

OPPOSITION

MAJOR opposition to the new gas proposition, if and when it is taken to cabinet, may come from Mines Minister George Prudham. He is firmly committed to the previous policy calling for an all-Canada pipeline first. Mr. Prudham probably would propose that before the government change its policy it throw the field open to all comers to determine if there is any other company, outside of Trans-Canada, that would be prepared to take on the job of constructing an all-Canada pipeline. If that was done and there were no takers then the Alberta minister would probably agree that the new proposition could be considered.

MUSIC

The bagpipes is a musical instrument even though it clashes with the laws of harmony, according to Walter Murdoch, executive officer for Canada of the American Federation of Musicians. Appearing as a witness before the Commons radio committee last week he said that the Toronto musicians' local takes in bagpipe players. Then he added the comment: "It is a musical instrument and very difficult to play properly. It violates the laws of harmony because the drones are tuned in fifths and you're not supposed to write music in consecutive fifths."

LEGAL TRAP

SASKATCHEWAN'S lone Conservative member in Parliament, John Diefenbaker, enjoys the reputation of being an expert in law and a tough cross-examiner. Consequently, when he sought to elicit a reply from Dr. McCann, the Minister of National Revenue, recently on an angle in the "Dempsey" affair, the minister quickly sought legal advice. Mr. McCann turned to his neighbor on the front benches, Justice Minister Garson, and after a whispered exchange the minister said he had no intention of answering "yes" or "no" to Mr. Diefenbaker.

Appealing to the House, Dr. McCann added, "In fairness I am a poor uneducated man as far as legal matters are concerned. I ask the honorable member: Do you consider it fair to try to trap me into answering questions from one who is supposed to be well-trained in the legal profession?"

DIRECTORSHIPS

Rumor has it that both Dr. McCann and Mines Minister Prudham will give up the directorships they hold in the near future. The question of cabinet ministers holding directorships was raised recently as a result of developments in the Ontario election campaign which have had repercussions in the Federal House, Prime Minister St. Laurent made it plain that while he himself had resigned all his directorships upon joining the Federal cabinet, he left it up to the conscience of each minister to decide whether to quit directorships.

HANGINGS

Members of the joint committee on capital and corporal punishment appear about equally divided on the question of changing Canada's official execution system. After the hangman gave evidence before the committee there was a strong reaction among many of the members against hanging as the means of carrying out capital punishment. However, since then the committee has heard evidence on electrocutions and on the gas chamber.

There now appears to be a tendency on the part of some members to leave the method of execution in Canada as it is at present, but they favor the establishment of central places for the executions in each province. On corporal punishment—punishment by the lash—the committee has heard strong evidence favoring its abolition. It is expected that the committee's recommendations will be debated at the next session of Parliament.

INVITATION

The Canadian government is leaving it up to Parliament to decide whether a Russian suggestion for exchange visits to parliamentarians should be accepted. External Affairs Minister Pearson made it apparent in the External Affairs committee that he did not regard the Russian proposal as an "invitation." He said it was merely a paragraph tagged on the end of an "unfriendly document" in so far as Canada and other western democracies were concerned.

The "document" referred to by the minister was a statement of the Supreme Soviet on Feb. 9. The Canadian Government had taken no action in regard to the Soviet suggestion. It had been presumed that if Russia meant seriously that there should be an exchange of representatives to speak in the host parliaments, more would have been heard from Moscow.

BALLIOL MAN

The point of Balliol was, in the first place, its long tradition of learning and intellectual activity. And in the second place, it was a college where all classes and indeed all races mixed. Duke's sons from Eton and the sons of railway engineers from Aberdeen would mingle on terms of convivial equality. It was, and still is, something to be a Balliol man; it creates a curious freemasonry which never fades. We boasted of our "effortless superiority" over other colleges; and the rest of the university regarded us, I regret to say, as intellectual pigs.

'You Can Always Trust an Amp'

If you want a hardworking man to conscientiously do a job in an office, plant or factory you can not do better than apply to any one of the 14 branches of the Canadian Amputations Association between here and Halifax.

This sounds like a sweeping statement but a talk with Arnold Palmer, now in Surgical One of the D.V.A. Hospital makes it a convincing one.

Palmer was one of the organizers of the association after World War I. He was president of the Winnipeg branch before he came to Victoria in 1926; has always held office and has been a national representative since 1921.

He tells a vital story of the determination to establish themselves in life as useful, productive citizens of more than 2,000 men in Canada who have lost arms, legs or eyesight in two World Wars and the Korean War.

Frankly, all amputation cases do not leave hospital with their new and strange artificial limbs and this spirit of determination.

Many are self-conscious to a degree that handicaps them as much as their physical disabilities; some are soured and resentful; some discouraged and full of self-pity.

These are the problem cases but lest the picture appear too darkly painted it should be pointed out that there are hundreds who face the inevitable change that has come into their lives with a jest and a smile and a will to succeed in spite of their handicaps.

Common to them all is a bond the Canadian Amputations Association has fostered through its fourteen branches for nearly 40 years.

Stripped of the verbiage that marks the constitution of all organizations, that of the Amputations Associations might be summarized.

"We are all in the same boat men. You can't grow new arms or legs and it is no good crying about it for the rest of your lives."

"We, ourselves, know we are still fit enough to do as good a day's work as any able-bodied man if we can get the right kind of jobs. Let's do something about it."

Based on the code they subscribed to, their slogans could have been: "Put an amp on the job and you can't go wrong" or "You can always trust an amp."

The original members of the association must have been shrewd psychologists.

They realized there were many amps shrinking from the rest of the world because of embarrassment or discouragement. "Bring them to the meetings," they urged. "Let them see how others as badly off or worse are getting along. Let's put some hope and optimism into them."

Chief object of the association, of course, has always been jobs for amputation cases, or amps as they call themselves.

The association never went pleadingly to employers.

It embarked on a campaign of education. It listed jobs which certain types of amputation cases could do as well as any able-bodied man and the number is surprisingly large. It went, and still goes, to employers with an idea to sell rather than a plea to make.

The going hasn't been too easy; neither has it been too difficult for the slogan "you can always trust an amp on the job" has been well backed. Office jobs were available in many cases and amps were encouraged to take courses to qualify with promise of work at the end of the course. Leg amputees were found jobs in elevators. Many others with special qualifications found more impressive employment.

The association's work, however, does not finish with finding jobs for members. Here the code of the amps to which they voluntarily subscribe comes into force.

Once an amp has been put into a post the association tries to see that that job is established as an amp's job for all time.

"You have got a job you have agreed to do at a certain price. Do it. Hang on to it," the association tells them. "Prove to the firm an amp on the job is as good as the best. No matter how tough you may be feeling, always show up for work on time. If you are forced to take time off, don't quit the job. Wait until you are properly relieved."

Object of the code, which at times sounds dictatorial seems justified as Palmer explains it.

"We know," he says, "an amp on the job is a man who is watched both for efficiency or inefficiency. Whichever way it goes he stands out. If he doesn't do a good job he turns the firm sour on amputation cases, lets himself down and what is more important lets the association down by spoiling the job for another amp."

Another bond between amps that keeps them on payrolls; should one decide to leave a job the firm may be the second to know about it; the association the first. Another member is ready to apply as soon as the other gives notice.

ATTLEE INDICATES HE'LL QUIT

DUHAM, Eng. (UP)—Former Prime Minister Clement Attlee said today that leadership of the British Labor Party "will now be passing on to younger generations."

It was Attlee's clearest hint that he soon would retire.

Another veteran Laborite leader, former Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton, resigned from the party "shadow cabinet" Friday night.

Dalton, in a letter to Attlee, said that the party elders should retire, but he excepted the former prime minister from his advice.

Claude Jodoin Returned as TLC President

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Hefty Claude Jodoin, youngest president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, Friday won re-election for a second term and assurance of heading the planned 1,000,000-member merger of labor congresses.

The towering Montreale, who turned 42 on May 25, was given an acclamation to the TLC presidency by the annual congress convention at the end of his first nine months of office.

This makes it certain that the former garment workers' organizer will become president next year of the new Canadian Labor Congress to be formed out of an amalgamation of the 600,000-member TLC and the 400,000 members of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

He was a 50-year member of Ashlar Lodge, A.F. & A.M. and Black Diamond Lodge No. 5, I.O.O.F. and was the oldest member of St. Andrew's United Church.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Isabel Rowe and Mrs. H. Bradshaw, and three grandsons.

'Wait for Break' Finlayson Advises

Tory Leader Says Task Difficult But Party Must Continue to Build Strength

B.C.'s Progressive Conservative Party must stay in business and "wait for the break," provincial leader Deane Finlayson said Friday.

"We must conduct our affairs and continue to accept our responsibilities," Mr. Finlayson told 50 lower island Tories in an address in the Williams Building.

The rebel leader of the B.C. Conservatives said "we never know when something will break, for the government fail, and we must have a healthy organization, we must continue to build our strength."

Mr. Finlayson warned the meeting that "our task here in B.C. is difficult." He said "as long as the CCF is a threat in B.C. and Premier Bennett wants to keep them a threat, it will be difficult for us to make any appreciable headway."

He said voters will consider the best way of keeping socialism out of government.

"With three parties on the right, saying 'support us' but will be cast for the strong party, the Social Credit," he said.

Mr. Finlayson said the lessons learned by the West, of the sudden emergence of splinter parties, must be passed on to our colleagues in the East.

"We want to see them succeed federally, because we feel it will help us provincially," the big Tory chieftain said.

He said the two-party system in Canada "is, or has broken down," through the failure of the national Conservative party to uphold Tory principles.

He said the party is the only means to prevent "eruption and chaos" on the national political level.

"But we cannot assume our proper position, as the alternative to government, by merely wishing that people will vote us in."

Mr. Finlayson warned that the "public is turning a deaf ear" to the "favorite cliché of our friends in the East, that if you want a change in Ottawa, there is only one party you can vote for—the Conservative party."

... the letters start. Then from all over the free world come such comments as these from readers of THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR, an international daily newspaper:

Ladner Switch Doesn't Worry Tory Leader

Provincial Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson made it clear Friday he is not bemoaning the loss to the Tories of Vancouver lawyer Graham B. Ladner, who joined the Liberal party Thursday.

"Ladner has not been active in the Conservative party for many years. By his own admission, he has voted in past elections for the Liberal candidate in his riding."

Besides, said Mr. Finlayson, "it is refreshing to find people bolting to other parties than Social Credit."

There is a resurgence taking place, although it is not particularly conspicuous yet," the provincial leader said.

Referring to his expulsion from the national officers' meeting in Ottawa, for his opposition to national leader George Drew, Mr. Finlayson said "not everyone was in favor."

He said the expulsion move was decided by "a powerful few" the night before the meeting itself, and that the resolution was prepared "by a solitary soul" (an apparent reference to George Drew).

Churchill's Life in Cartoons Reveals Emotions He Aroused

Reviewed By TOM MERRIDAN

W.S.C., A CARTOON BIOGRAPHY. British Book Service (Canada) Limited; 242 pages; $3.50.

Although Sir Winston Churchill has presumably retired to the political shadows—difficult as this is to imagine—there is little doubt that the latest book about him, "W.S.C., a Cartoon Biography," will be one of the most widely circulated of the many that have been published about the most outstanding figure in modern history.

Published on Churchill's 80th birthday it covers in pictures 55 years of the life of the most cartooned man in the world and the most controversial man in public life of that time. Brief captions with each full page cartoon tell his life story.

It makes nostalgic reading for those whose personal knowledge of history goes back to the Boer War in which Churchill as a young war correspondent and soldier by turn made his name as a writer and fighter.

NO INHIBITIONS
Probably the most uninhibited man to enter public life it was obvious from the day he made his debut as a politician that his versatility and his talents would carry him to fame.

It was even more obvious that he would not be handicapped in the race by the alleged virtues of modesty and humility or be hidebound by traditions.

In spite of being the son of the brilliant Lord Randolph, whom he devotedly admired, the young Churchill crashed into the spotlight as a national figure in his own right. After making a sensational escape as a Boer prisoner in South Africa he returned to England to win a seat in parliament in the "khaki" election of September, 1900.

READ THE FOREWORD

Readers will be tempted to plunge right into the picture story that starts at this time, and great credit must go to Fred Urquhart for his painstaking work of collecting and arranging 279 apt cartoons from British and foreign publications. They will, however, miss a lot if they skip the foreword by Harold Nicholson who in four succinct pages prepares the way for the series of cartoons covering Sir Winston's life through-out the eventful years of 1900 to 1955.

The cartoons depict him through the many stages of his spectacular career. In turn cartoonists have admired and idolized him, criticized him, ridiculed him, praised him, and hated him. Foreign cartoonists, especially during his dynamic leadership in two world wars, have poured hatred and vindictiveness into their caricatures.

DIFFERENT THEN

A most interesting, and frequently reproduced cartoon, that may be recalled by older readers is a famous one by Spy which shows him as a young man just starting to make a name for himself in the world.

It is a far different picture from those of the well-rounded Churchill of today.

In the 1900 cartoon he is depicted as a slim dapper dandy of that time. Published as a "Man of the Day" caricature, the story accompanying it said: "He can write and he can fight; he is ambitious, he means to get on and he loves his country. But he can hardly be the slave of any party."

The writer of that day proved an accurate forecaster.

France of 1209 Brought to Life In New Romance

THE SIEGE, by Jay Williams; publishers, Little, Brown & Company; 292 pages; $4.25.

Mr. Williams' latest novel throws considerable light on the life and times of France in the year 1209, a period that has had considerably less attention from writers of historical fiction than others. The novelty of roaming about in a literary way, in this little-known time more than makes up for a lack of pace in the book.

In brief, it concerns a young peasant, Jocelin, whose instinctive skill with weapons and tactics made him shine out above the ordinary foot-soldier that he was knighted in the field at Parado by Count Raymond of Toulouse.

Because of his humble origins, Jocelin never does fight quite at home in courtly surroundings, and is exceedingly thin-skinned in his relations with others. It is to his benefit that Guy of Nisenn, worldly and crafty, and the mystic and dreamer, Amauric, befriend him and eventually help him to know himself.

TWO CAMPAIGNS

It takes the religio-political campaign in the Languedoc—on the one hand a war against the Albigensian sect, and on the other a campaign to keep the Rhone valley route between Italy and France in the hands of Roman Catholic lords—before Jocelin finds his heart's desire at Carcassonne.

Those who know their history know what happened at Beziers, and later at Carcassonne. Others will have to read the book, and will not find the time wasted.

There is more, though, than a narrative of history. There is the day-to-day way of life, what people wear on their feet, what they eat and how it is cooked, and the clash and clamor of the tournament.

There is also a love story, with the gentle Alix as the object of the affections of the three young men.

Perhaps fuller development of the theme would bring the novel more to life than it is now but a little exercise of the imagination fills in the gaps. It is all things to all people, and seems to meet most of the demands on it adequately. D.G.I.

The Bible on which George Washington took the oath as first president of the United States still exists.

Art in Review

By COLIN GRAHAM

"But I wonder if he can really draw." This remark must be heard dozens of times a month these days as an increasingly interested public stands in front of an increasing number of semi or wholly abstract paintings in public galleries. Now that the national press has stumbled on the fact that Vancouver's leading painters, almost all of them abstract, have made that city the present focus of the visual arts in Canada, it is a remark we shall certainly not hear less of hereabouts for a good while yet.

When we talk about an artist's ability to draw, we usually mean his knack for striking a likeness; and the more photographically accurate his likeness is the more highly we are apt to think of him as an artist. LIKENESS NOT ENOUGH
What, then, does a painter mean when he tells you that a mere likeness is not necessarily a good drawing in any artistic sense of the word? Thousands of artists in the last few centuries have been able to hit off excellent likenesses of a human face or some similarly complex object. But since in most cases their work has been of little lasting value.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

Odds and Ends along Book Row... The second volume of the two-part biography of Sir John A. MacDonald is just being completed by author Donald Creighton and is scheduled for early fall publication. If the second is as good as the first, The Young Politician, it will be one of the better books of the season.

Ethel Wilson, author of Hefty Doryal, Swamp Angel, etc., is an honorary Doctor of Letters, the first person ever to receive degree from the University of British Columbia. Congratulations! ... Robertson Davies' Leaven of Malice, current winner of the Leacock Medal for humor, has gone into its second edition. The English like it too. ... Two of the strongest sellers in the light reading field at the moment are by a couple of lady writers, old hands at the business of froth for the masses—Cornelia Otis Skinner and Betty MacDonald. Miss Skinner's current success is called Bottoms Up and Miss MacDonald has belted hers Onions in the Stew. Who says titles don't sell books?

Coming up, this August will be Lionel Shapiro's third novel, The Sixth of June, which is about a reporter's adventures in the last war. This is home territory for Mr. Shapiro, who served as war correspondent for the Montreal Gazette. Since turning to novels, reporter Shapiro has been doing right well. His Torch for a Dark Journey was adapted for the stage and the new one, The Sixth of June, is a Book-of-the-Month Club choice.

Graham Greene Top Story-Teller

Graham Greene, perhaps the best known of the post-war British novelists, is currently in the news with two just-issued volumes. Twenty-one Stories is just what it says, a collection of author Greene's short stories, most of them a bit on the rough side, but all of them exhibiting that excellence of storytelling craft which has brought him to the top rung whether you like his themes or not. Lower Takes All is in another vein entirely. It's real frivolous with a setting in Monte Carlo, where two innocent honeymooners unexpectedly find themselves. It's neat and it's witty and should have a good run before the summer is out.

Other recent books which are attracting attention of one kind or another right now include Thibetan Marches, by Andre Migot, a travel book about an extended trip through Tibet by a man who had always had such a journey as his ambition.

Party of One All About Nooks

For the book reviewer, Clifton Fadiman's Party of One is likely to be the favorite of the week, just because it talks shop, if nothing else. It is made up largely of his book reviews in the New Yorker and as I went through it I was astonished at how often Mr. Fadiman and I have disagreed. Didn't know we were at such odds. For example, he can't stand William Faulkner and devotes quite a lot of articles to proving same. Me, I like Faulkner fine and agreed with the greater lights who awarded him a Nobel Prize for Literature.

Mr. Fadiman couldn't stand Gertrude Stein either. Must say I have read other writers whose own work entranced me more than that of the indomitable Miss Stein, but as a literary influence I still maintain that she deserves full marks. After all, even if she couldn't write so well herself, she certainly knew how to goad some others on, like Ernest Hemingway (whom Mr. Fadiman likes) and that surely is worth something.

Far be it from me to minimize the efforts of criticism. And I suspect the same would go for Mr. Fadiman if he had given the matter a bit more thought.

Exploration Of Red River Good Reading

BEYOND THE CROSS TIMBERS, by W. Eugene Hollon; Byrns and MacEachern, Toronto; 270 pages; $3.25.

Captain Randolph B. Marcy, an account of whose travels this book gives us, was the first man to trace the Red River in the year 1852, a feat not accomplished by any of the more famed explorers of the 19th century, whose fame attracted far more notoriety.

Captain Marcy conducted five major expeditions in the west and the knowledge he gained during these trips along with the maps he drew, was of great interest and help to the army, leading to the establishment of a string of forts from Fort Smith to New Mexico. He also discovered a number of hitherto unknown Indian reserves.

Apart from its historical data, this book is well worth reading for its graphic and interesting picture of army life in lonely frontier posts in the 19th century, and of the brave women who helped their menfolk to face the danger and loneliness of their work.

AUDREY SAYS

Representative Organizations Out for Cultural Development

By AUDREY S.D. JOHNSON

To me, one of the most interesting issues that arose at the recent national annual meeting of the IODE in Winnipeg, was contained in the discussion with regard to the Massey report on arts and sciences. This powerful organization of women—one of the most powerful in Canada—last October undertook a study of cultural development in Canada with the prime intention of finding out what had been done to implement the findings of the Massey report.

And, of course, they have found that it, like so many reports of royal commissions upon which large amounts of public funds are expended, had been more or less totally relegated to one of Ottawa's thousand-and-one dusty pigeon holes.

At the national level, Mrs. Frank McCurdy of Toronto told the assembled delegates of her order, practically nothing has been done. In fact certain provincial governments have stepped out and are showing the dominion government and the rest of Canada the way—or the light!

Most enlightened provinces are revealed as Quebec, Saskatchewan and Alberta, where development has been striking with financial assistance given writers and musicians, and government-subsidized tours organized for orchestral and theatrical groups.

And then there is the committee formed by the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council on behalf of our own Art Gallery and Symphony Orchestra. Though now disbanded, it has also been in the nature of a show of strength and a sign that the public is not quite so apathetic to the fate of these things as some persons would like to believe.

No two organizations could be more representative of the housewives, the mothers and fathers, the teachers—in fact the average thinking citizen—than the IODE and Parent-Teacher bodies.

For those who are not too purblind to see the writing on the wall, or too insensitive to feel the set of the wind, these actions are much more than isolated occurrences.

They indicate what a large section of the Canadian public is seeking both for itself and its children.

No, not seeking. Rather, expecting. Canadians have emerged from the new frontier stage for quite a while now and their cities are big and prosperous. It would be strange and unnatural indeed, if they did not demand the civilized man's rightful heritage of sustenance for the mind and spirit to grow on.

Embattled ignorance delights in hurling the charge that those who ask government recognition and support for the arts should be prepared to shoulder the responsibility themselves if they want symphonies and art galleries.

"Dig into your own pockets, if you're so keen!" they say in effect. "Don't ask us for money!"

CAN BACK IT UP

Well, when the IODE urges immediate establishment of a Canada Council to stimulate and direct further cultural development, they have plenty to back it up with.

Here are a few instances. Recently a young Toronto pianist, Malcolm Troup, was awarded a music scholarship of $1,200 by the IODE. This will allow him a period of study in Germany under the celebrated pianist, Walter Gieseking.

One British Columbia chapter has given $1,500 for an art centre and art gallery at the University of B.C. In Newfoundland another has awarded a scholarship in music. Here in Victoria, the IODE has assisted several talented young local artists.

They are doing all they can, these women who are not representatives of any minority, but who simply speak from the Canadian home. It is only to be expected that they should look to their governments at different levels, to do as much.

Distinguished Group To Conduct Exams

ELIE SPIVAK

MARY M. SHORE

DOROTHY A. PARK

FLORENCE AYMONG

More than 30,000 music students across Canada will be taking Royal Conservatory of Music examinations this summer according to a statement from Toronto. Distinguished members of the faculty of the major Canadian music centre will come to Victoria to examine students at this centre, beginning Monday, when Mary MacKinnon Shore will conduct piano examinations, continuing through to June 20.

Mrs. Shore is well known in the east as a concert soloist and will be remembered for many appearances on Conservatory radio programs. She was also a member of the famed "Ten Piano Ensemble" which toured all parts of Canada. She has traveled extensively, giving special courses for piano teachers.

On June 23 and 24, Elie Spivak, for 17 years concert master of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, will commence the examining of violin candidates.

Beginning study at the Paris Conservatoire at the age of eight, the Russian-born artist later went to the Royal College of Music in London, and during the early 1920s organized his own string quartet, which became the first chamber ensemble ever to play over BBC. He made his debut in London and thereafter toured the continent.

Coming to Canada in 1923, he played with the Humber Trio and, at Sir Ernest MacMillan's request, started the Royal Conservatory String Quartet.

Some years ago he resigned his position as concert master of the Toronto Symphony in order to follow a full-time schedule of teaching, concertizing and leading the now internationally famous Spivak String Quartet.

As a solo artist Mr. Spivak has appeared in recitals throughout Canada and the United States, and in 1950 made a three-month tour of Israel. The Spivak Quartet has now been placed under contract with Columbia Artists Management.

Dorothy Allen Park, leading Canadian soprano and teacher, will judge local candidates June 25. Until five years ago when she retired from active concert work, Mrs. Park was a leading soloist with the Mendelssohn Choir, Toronto Symphony Orchestra and other important musical organizations across Canada.

Florence Aymong, well known to Canadian audiences as a performer, adjudicator and popular member of the Conservatory Board of Examiners, is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory. She studied with Clara Salisbury Baker and the British coach, Herbert Scott. Mrs. Aymong, who will examine speech candidates on June 15, has taken an active part in children's theatre work in Toronto.

WEEK-END MARQUEE

Top TV Stories Show Marked Improvement on Movie Scripts

It has been in our mind for some time now that television stories are generally superior to stories chosen to be made into motion pictures.

We are, of course, referring to a selected group of TV plays, namely, those produced by Kraft, U.S. Steel and Robert Montgomery. All these mentioned have the knack of peopling their plays with actors and actresses who not only act like people but respond like them.

It is, therefore, with some delight that we note various Hollywood studios have picked up some of the more successful TV plays and are in the midst of re-making them into movies.

Rod Serling, brilliant 30-year-old playwright, for instance, has scored a double hit. Two of his TV plays, "Patterns" and "The Rack" will be suitably lengthened and made into movies. Serling himself will be responsible for the re-scripting. "The Rack" will be filmed by MGM under its new title, "Court Martial."

Yet another TV hit that drew raves from Victorians and lovers of drama the continent over, "Fearful Decision," the play that starred Ralph Bellamy as the distraught father who refuses to pay ransom to the kidnappers of his son, will become a motion picture. This also was bought by MGM.

Other TV plays scheduled to go before the cameras this summer are "Twelve Angry Men," "It Might Happen Tomorrow," "Crime in the Streets" and "The Last Notch."

The unbelievably successful small screen play, "Marty," has already been turned into a movie and is receiving the highest accolades from eastern critics.

Certainly this is all to the good. And it is heartening to see Hollywood pick up the cue. For too long now we have been suffering motion pictures heavy with "big names" but dismally hollow in plot.

As we have stated before: Take all your stars, your wide screens, your fantastic advertising and color. Give us instead ordinary mortals who can act in a play that will engross them and us.

***

AROUND TOWN: Norman Reay, manager of the Plaza Theatre, brings us "Stars of the Russian Ballet" on Monday.

If this is as good as "The Grand Concert" served up by Iron Curtain artists last year then we are in for a treat.

"Stars of the Russian Ballet" will feature exquisite dancer Ulanova who, some say, need only to England and Sadler's Wells' Margot Fonteyn.

In addition to the soloists one will see the Corps de Ballet of Moscow's Bolshoi Theatre and the Kirov Opera House of Leningrad. Features include excerpts from Swan Lake as well as original scores called "Flames of Paris" and "Fountain of Bakhchisarai."

Good news of the week is that young Richie Andrusco arrives back in town Tuesday at the Dominion in the charming "The Little Fugitive." We can't commend this to you too highly.

Musical comedy lovers can look forward to "Three for the Show," which opens at the Odeon next Friday. This stars Betty Grable, Jack Lemmon and the Champions, Marge and Gower.

Another musical that has drawn fairly good notices is "Daddy Longlegs," which stars Fred Astaire and Leslie Caron. This is due to open at the Royal soon.

On the second run front we would draw your attention to "Women's World" which opens at the Atlas on Monday. Starring a host of "name" stars like Fred MacMurray, Clifton Webb, Arline Dahl, Van Heflin and June Allyson it makes for an interesting evening filled with hearty laughter.

Auditoriums Are Making News In Other Cities

A year or so ago, Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle shared one important lack. All three were minus really good professional auditoriums for concerts and had only the most limited facilities for legitimate stage presentations. Today, a fine auditorium is rising in Vancouver which will provide an answer to most of the mainland city's problems and set it well ahead among progressive Canadian metropolises.

In Seattle, the Moore Theatre will open on May 24, with the road company of "Pajama Game," heralding the "newest" legitimate theatre on the West Coast. This theatre has been reclaimed by Hugh Beckett, completely remodelled and renovated, incorporating ultra-modern ideas for comfort and efficiency.

In addition to being open for booking of road shows, recitals, operas and plays, it is to become the home of the Seattle Symphony Orchestra. Vancouver and Seattle have drawn ahead in the march of progress. In the months to come, many Victorians will visit, admire and sigh enviously over the opportunities these buildings will provide residents of the respective cities.

The Times Wild Flower Coloring Contest

Name _____
Age _____
Address _____
I saw this flower (location): _____

PRIZES
Judging will be done in three groups according to age:
1. 8 years and under.
2. 8 to 12 years.
3. Over 12 years.

Here is the ninth picture in an interesting contest for children of all ages. Not only will those who like coloring enjoy it, but they will also learn something about the wild flowers which abound in the southern Vancouver Island area.

CONTEST RULES

Clip the attached sketch of a flower.
You are then to find out what the natural coloring of the flower is. You may go into the country to find the flower in its natural setting; or you may see the flowers on display in the Provincial Museum when they are in season.
Color your flower in crayon, pastel or other medium.
When you have a collection of four flowers covering one month's entries mail them to "Flower Coloring Contest, Victoria Daily Times, 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria."

Entries may be mounted on cardboard if so desired.

Children competing for the prizes in the older group may do replicas of the design in water or oil paints if they wish.

Send the following form with your entry:

Each month the entries will be judged by the Women's Committee of the Victoria Symphony Society.

The three best groups of four in each age group will be awarded certificates of proficiency.

The winning entries in each group each month will then be eligible to compete for the grand prizes at the end of the contest.

The grand prize winners will receive recognition by medal, with a cash award for the top prizewinners. Grand prize winning entries will be displayed at the provincial museum.

FALSE SOLOMON'S SEAL

This plant occurs quite abundantly from Victoria to the Yukon. Because it often grows in a clump two feet high and has large broad, waxy leaves, False Solomon's seal is one of the more noticeable wild flowers. Many natural or part-natural gardens in Saanich, Langford and Sooke have clumps of this flower. Almost any open forest with moist rich soil provides a suitable home. The stems are thick, unbranched and often curving. Two rows of leaves stand out from them like steps on a ladder. These are from two inches to five inches long and prettily ornamented by distinct parallel veins. Three other flowers, Oregon fairy bells, Twisted stalk and Star-flowered Solomon's seal have rather similar leaves with parallel veins. However, none has leaves as large as this one nor are the flowers carried in a big plume at the tip of the stem.

Many hundreds of tiny wax flowers grouped in fuzzy clusters along branchlets combine to form a showy feathery spray.

This emits a faint sweetish fragrance and stays in bloom for several weeks. The berries that follow become really noticeable in late summer when they swell to the size of a large pea and turn a mottled red color. Although edible they are very tasteless.

Botanical name: Smilacina amplexicaulis.

Match for It?

For a deceptive trick, take a handful of matches, or toothpicks, place 10 on a table, remove six and leave none. Use any method you like, so long as no matches are broken or crossed.

Answer: Arrange the matches in a row of 10, and then remove the 6th match from the end.

ROUND AND ROUND

Can you place the numbers 1 to 19 in the circles below so that the sum of any three in a straight line totals 30?

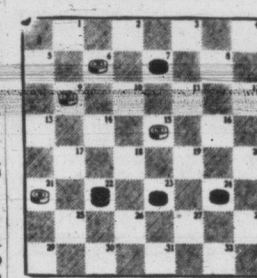

We'll give you a hint: the number in the centre circle can be counted on both hands.

Fir Plywood Barrier Protects From Winds

A winter weather-break to protect your house or barn door can be an attractive addition anyone can make.

The one shown here uses fir plywood panels and is of the simplest construction. In addition, the waterproof glue bond of the fir plywood stands up to extremes of dampness and cold and makes the panels ideal for screening off wind, rain and snow.

Details for building the screen are shown and sizes are determined both by the shape of the house and the job that has to be done. Note that the panels are set in the centre of the framing lumber. They are held in place by 1/2 round moulding nailed to the frame.

This wind screen can be given a creosote-base stain finish, for a very attractive effect that shows the natural grain of the fir.

Alternatively, the fir plywood can be painted to match the house. Edges of the panels should be sealed before installing when panels are to be painted and a high-grade exterior house paint primer will do the trick.

The same primer thinned with one pint of raw linseed oil for a gallon of paint should be put on the whole structure as soon as it is built. Finishing coats of top quality house paint applied according to manufacturer's directions will complete the job.

Gardens and Home Building

Victoria Daily Times SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1955 9

JACK BEASTALL SAYS

June Marks New Phase in Year For Gardener as Summer Nears

The month of June brings the end to one gardening period and the beginning to another.

The spring display of plants and shrubs is over. The shrubs should be pruned, the bulbs dug, sorted, and either stored or replanted, and the spring flowering perennials (polyanthus, arabis, aubretia) divided.

Bearded iris (Iris germanica) and the painted daisies (pyrethrum) will take the spotlight now and form the link between the spring and summer displays.

Both these plants should be dug and divided as soon as the flowers fade. The rhizomes (swollen roots) of the iris are set at soil level so as to receive a good banking during summer.

EASILY DIVIDED

Pyrethrum can be divided into quite small pieces which will produce better flowers than large clumps. A clump effect can be obtained by planting several small divisions in a twelve-inch circle.

The beginning of June is important to the home gardener in several ways. As the effects of our early spring work become more apparent we can see where we have failed to do things on time, and the errors in the plans we made last fall are still in the memory.

These things are worth writing down in the garden notebook for reference in future years. While the notebook is handy it is wise to see what changes suggested themselves when we took stock last summer and fall.

WORK ON PERENNIALS

We still have a week or so in which to move and divide the late summer and fall flowers.

GARDEN QUIZ

Tulip Bulbs Too Small?

Q.—Many of my tulips produce one large leaf and no flower stem. What is the cause and will they bloom again?

A.—These large single leaves are produced by small tulip bulbs which have not attained flowering size. They will bloom probable next year.

Q.—Recently, when I took some tubers of Tigridia (Mexican shell flower) out of the paper bag used for storage over winter, I found them shrivelled and apparently useless. How can I prevent this another year?

A.—For storing small quantities of tubers or bulbs, I have found it satisfactory to put them when freshly dug in the fall into a pot of suitable size with sufficient soil to cover them. The soil should be moderately dry at first. This will prevent the tubers or bulbs from becoming bone dry. Any moisture in the soil will be put back into the tubers as they require it. This treatment will suffice for such subjects as montbretia, ixia, tigridia, sparaxis and freesia. All these have small tubers or bulbs, and tend to dry out too much if given paper bag storage. Horticultural vermiculite also is satisfactory.

Q.—How does one obtain soot water and manure water?

A.—Both are obtained in the same manner. Soot or manure is placed in a sack and suspended in a wooden container filled with water, the sack being occasionally dunked up and down. For use on plants a little of the stock liquid is drawn off and diluted with water until the color of weak tea, and applied at the rate of one cupful (or soup can) to a plant every 10 days to two weeks.

HUSBANDS

(A Little Girl's Essay)

Husbands is the people what your mamma marries, & she always wishes that she hadn't picked out the one she did, but I don't know why, 'cause husbands all look alike to me.

My Mamma says that husbands is like the things you buy at a bargain table. They look fine & grand so that you feel like you'll die if you don't get the one you have set your eyes on, & you fight with another woman for it, & are ready to pull her hair out, & scratch her face for it, but after you get it, and take it home, it looks like 30 cents, & you spend your life wondering what made you fool enough to want it.

Husbands is very polite to strange women, & they laugh themselves most to death when the pretty slim young ladies tell jokes, but when their wives are 40 years old, & has gotten fat, husbands is grouchy, & when their wives tell a funny story all they say is "Huh."

I guess husbands is pretty smart, & knows the most 'cause they sit up all nite & read the paper, & never waste any time talking to their wives.

Husbands is a kind of fish, as I heard Susie Jones was fishing for Mr. Brown, but they didn't think she'd ever hook him. Most ladies is only got one husband, but the ladies that have travelled far sometimes has a collection of husbands.

A good husband is a man who gives you plenty of money to go down to HUBBER'S, who have a funny kind of store in a big warehouse with pretty things inside, & a husband that is a mean old thing is the one that makes you buy things on a bill, so he can see how the money was spent, & who goes snooping around the kitchen seeing how thick the potato peelings are.

A husband is a useful thing around the house, for it pays the bills. I am going to have a husband when I grow up.

Time to Lift Daffodils

Narcissus, including all the daffodils, may be lifted now from beds needed for summer planting. Plant in trench and let die down naturally.

Finish planting of dahlias and gladioli.

Trim into shape plants of alysium, aubretia, ibertis and arabis after flowering is finished.

Continue staking and tying perennials.

Peonies and delphinium need deep watering and feeding now.

Plant out zinnia, African marigold and other tender annuals.

Plant out fast-of-tomatoes. Plant celery in prepared trench.

Sow, or plant out, runner beans, corn, squash.

Sweet pepper plants may be set out in cold frame or warm protected garden spot.

Set a few cucumber plants into vacant greenhouse bed or bench. They like a warm humid atmosphere.

Remove old flower heads from the larger flowering rhododendrons and azaleas.

Prune flowered stems of cistus praecox by shortening half their length.

Baskets and window boxes may have their plantings completed.

The succession of radish, lettuce and spinach is maintained by sowing a few seeds every ten days to two weeks. Peas for late picking can be sown towards the end of June, using the same early variety suited for spring sowings.

New Zealand spinach, the one which produces during the summer heat, should be sown immediately because it likes the cooler weather in which to germinate and become established.

They will need daily care to ensure success.

Sow biennials such as wallflower (Cheiranthus cheiri), foxglove (digitalis), forget-me-not (myosotis), Canterbury bell (Campanula calyculata), for flowering next year.

Plant out dahlias which have been started indoors.

Nerine (Guernsey lily), which has been wintered indoors in pots, should now be moved to coldframe where it may ripen without water.

Sow seed of squash, sweet corn, marrow, bush and runner beans outdoors.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

The time comes, as it must, we suppose, to put down in black and white how the Intercity Lacrosse League race will finish this year.

Really it's not much of a chore; because, to start with, New Westminster Salmonbellies can be eliminated as a threat for the regular league championship.

As eager and spirited as they are, and bound to improve with competition, the Salmonbellies must of necessity be relegated to the league cellar position. Not that they won't make their presence felt this season. That they will; but the over-all experience and greater strength of the other four clubs will prevail in the end.

This obviously leaves the other four clubs assured of playoff berths. The battle for survival for third place will be conducted between the two Vancouver entries, Mount Pleasant Indians and Pilseners.

Pilseners, the early season surprise, showed little in their one game here, but at home they appear to have the know-how in making the Nanaimo Timbermen behave. That takes a lot of doing, but it's unlikely that Pils will be doing it much longer.

Indians' only bid for recognition stems from two victories over the Shamrocks. To the Irish they will always be a tough foe but not that tough that they will be all-conquering.

Pilseners have a veteran crew, Indians have some promising rookies. The rookies will transcend, especially on foreign floors. So put Pilseners in fourth slot and reserve third place for the tribe.

Island's Private Fish Fry

That leaves Victoria Shamrocks and Nanaimo Timbermen to do what is expected of them—go down to the wire in a ding-dong race that likely won't be decided until the final week of the campaign.

As league champions, and with suitable replacements in the fold for those who have decided to assume a less active interest in the sport, the Irish race about on a par with last year's club. Still, to date they have not shown their true worth and conceivably could be even stronger because of the extra competition expected from other clubs.

The Timbermen, on the other hand, are the most improved club in the league. They are at least 30 per cent stronger than they were last year, and despite the fine play of substitute goalie Alf Shuker, will be that much more formidable when Fred Pulla returns to active duty.

Potentially (even statistically) the Timbermen have the highest scoring unit in the league; but twice they have lost to the Shamrocks, and twice they have bowed to Pilseners.

... And So, the Die Is Cast

Nanaimo's only fault could be over-confidence. The Shamrocks could run to complacency. Both should win majority of their home games. Nanaimo should have more incentive. The Rocks have prestige at stake.

There's only a hair between them, and it should be an even-money bet.

It could be except for the thought that Nanaimo has gained more in the off-season than have the Shamrocks. And once they reach a full-gallop will be the club to beat.

And so, Shamrocks will finish in second place for the first time in four years, and the new league champions will be the Timbermen.

That's the way it is unless the Irish prove us wrong, when they could, and we hope they do.

The playoffs? That's another story.

Home Runs 'By Ear' Newest Ball Wrinkle

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—Something new has been added in the venerable Three-I League—an "ear test" for home runs. Playing manager Ray Perry of the Cedar Rapids Raiders walloped three home runs in a double-header with Keokuk Thursday night, but the first one had to be tested by sound before it was certified as official by umpire Pete Jaworsky.

Press box observers agreed the ball seemed to strike a large metal scoreboard four feet back of the eight-foot wooden fence in left-centrefield, then bounce back into the playing field. The surprised Perry had to slide into second to avoid being put out. Perry and Jaworsky argued briefly and Jaworsky admitted the drive was difficult to follow in the twilight before the lights were turned out.

So, he called for a ball and marched out to the fence. First he threw the ball against the wooden fence and then against the metal scoreboard.

The difference in sound convinced him the ball had hit the scoreboard and he ruled the hit a home run.

Quakers Get Emile Francis

SASKATOON (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League announced Friday the acquisition of goalkeeper Emile (The Cat) Francis, with Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League for the last two years and formerly in the WHL with Vancouver Canucks.

Francis, property of New York Rangers, was assigned to Quakers when he again became a New York chattel through an involved deal between Rangers and Cleveland which started three years ago.

He is at North Battleford, Sask.

Conrad Wins British Title

ST. ANNES, Eng. (UP)—Lieut. Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., fought off a brilliant afternoon rally by England's Alan Slater today and captured the British Amateur golf championship on his first try with a 3 and 2 victory in their 36-hole final.

ST. ANNES, Eng. (UP)—Lieut. Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., led England's Alan Slater, 1 up, today after 27 holes of their scheduled 36-hole match for the British Amateur golf championship. Conrad held a 4-up lead after 18 but the Englishman cut three holes off his margin during the first nine holes after lunch.

Conrad, a 25-year-old air force officer playing in the tournament for the first time, led throughout the morning 18. He said he liked to play in Britain's rugged weather and proved it by outplaying the 36-year-old Slater in heavy rain and wind.

Slater, three down after five holes, rallied to cut Conrad's margin to one hole after 10. But the Texas who had come out of the rough or bunkers eight times on the first 11 holes, then began driving and approaching beautifully on the narrow fairways.

He won the 11th and swept the 14th, 15th and 16th to go five up. Slater, trying to become the first Englishman to win the title in 22 years, put his third shot less than a foot from the pin on the 17th but had to settle for a half when Conrad sank an 18-foot putt.

Conrad went to lunch with a four-hole margin when he lost the 379-yard 18th.

The morning round cards follow:
Par out — 441 435 543—35
Par in — 453 444 444—36-71
Conrad out 456 434 654—41
Slater out 457 x3x 553—x
Conrad in — 443 444 445—36-41-77
Slater in — 463 455 x44—x (Conrad leads, 4 up.)
x Conceded hole.

Conrad won the 19th with a par-three to go five up. It was then that Slater began his comeback. He won the 21st by sinking a 20-foot putt, took the 23rd in Par, won the 24th with a birdie four, and the 26th in par four to Conrad's five. Both had birdie two on the 27th.

Conrad sinking an 18-foot putt, put him back in the lead. Slater, who had been playing over his home course, Colwood.

Defending champion is Bob Morrison of Uplands who will seek his ninth title.

The tournament will consist of 72 holes on medal play, 36 scheduled for Sunday, with the final round billed at Colwood, June 12.

Doris Hart Wins

MANCHESTER, England (UP)—Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., won the women's singles crown in the northern lawn tennis championships today by beating Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., 9-11, 6-2, 6-2.

Patrick Pleased With Deal; Rates Terry Among Best

BOSTON (UP)—Boston Bruins' general manager Lynn Patrick did everything but figure eight today after a nine-player trade with the Detroit Red Wings in which Boston got Terry Sawchuk. "I think this Sawchuk is one of the best goal-tenders I've ever seen," Patrick said. "I'd rank him with Bill Durnan and Frankie Brimsek as an all-time great."

Sawchuk, a three-time Vezina trophy winner, is expected to fill the gap in the sagging Bruins' defense. "He should take care of our problems, there all right," Schmidt said.

Patrick said the Bruins had been working on the trade for about two months. He said the Boston club "had to have a goalie and I think we got the best."

Patrick said the Bruins planned to farm out John Henderson who helped out veteran goalie Jim Henry this year.

"Henderson lacks experience but he's a definite prospect for the future," Patrick said.

Northwest Track Stars To Enter Island Meet

Record Entry Anticipated; Times to Co-Sponsor Event

The bluebloods of top track clubs, colleges and high schools in the Northwest are expected to kick up cinders June 18 when the Victoria Daily Times and the Victoria "Y" Track Club host the fifth annual Vancouver Island Track and Field Championships.

A record entry is anticipated for the evening meet, which once again will be held at Victoria High School's stadium.

Already, a team of 55 runners, hurdlers, tossers and jumpers is guaranteed from the Vancouver district alone, with U.S. entries still to be heard from.

In conjunction with the open events will be a juvenile meet for which the host club will present an aggregate team trophy. The Vancouver Olympic Club won the trophy last year but is expected to receive some stiff arguments from the Victoria High School team this year.

The Times will present medals to the first three winners in all events of the open division.

Canadian champions and Empire Games competitors will rub shoulders on the night of the big event.

One of the top events is expected to be the battle between Harry Nelson of New Westminster and Vancouver's Bruce Springbett of Vancouver in the open 100 yards.

Nelson, the blond-haired, hot-footed Empire Games finalist turned in a blazing 9.5 for the 100 this year, just two-tenths of 100 off the world record.

Springbett, another Empire Games finalist, has knocked off a 9.7. Victoria will be represented in the century by Rafael Dulce, 1951 Canadian 100-yard champion.

Another recently-famous name who will be competing will be New Westminster's Gerry Swan, ace two-miler. Swan ran the event in 9:24.5 at Western Washington College, the fastest intercollegiate two-miler in the U.S. this year.

Former Victoria High School star Ted Whan, who last week won the NAIA 440-yard title while running for Western Washington and who this week is taking part in the U.S. Nationals at Texas, will defend the Joe Addison Memorial Trophy he captured at the Island meet last year.

Terry Tobacco, the promising Cumberland Empire Games 440 finalist, will be competing for the Victoria Y. Tobacco has not had the opportunity to train this year and may limit himself to the mile relay. The Y may field a sensational relay team, composed of Whan, Tobacco, Joe Haeger and Jim Kinnett.

Thomson Leads Adding-Machine Golfing Derby

GREAT NECK, N.Y. (AP)—Peter Thomson, a saucy young Aussie with a magic putting touch, outshot America's finest pros Friday to take a nine-point lead in the Deepdale round robin golf tournament.

The 25-year-old British open champion from Melbourne added sub-par rounds of 67 and 68 to a previous 69 over the 6,693-yard, par 70 Deepdale course to rack up a total of 22 plus points in this so-called adding machine derby.

Each of the 16 hand-picked players in the field faces each of the others over a five-round period and the championship is decided by a plus-and-minus comparison of scores.

The day's two best scores—a pair of course-record-tying 66—by Masters champion Cary Midgoff and Ted Kroil—went virtually unheeded because they played in the same foursome.

Santee Misses Again; Runs Mile in 4.01.2

COMPTON, Calif. (AP)—Wes Santee won the featured mile race in the Compton track meet Friday night in 4:01.2 as once again the four-minute mile eluded him.

The 23-year-old Kansas runner took over the lead in the last lap. Bobby Seaman of the University of California at Los Angeles outran little Fred Dwyer, ex-Villanova runner, to take second.

Seaman was timed in 4:01.4 and Dwyer in 4:01.8.

This was Santee's last opportunity to break the four-minute mile barrier before reporting to the United States Marine Corps later this month.

Santee's best time is 4:00.5, established in the Texas relays in April.

'Rocks Romp Over Pilseners

Shamrocks 13, Pilseners 7
VANCOUVER (CP)—Victoria Shamrocks maintained their tight grip on the first place in the Intercity Lacrosse League Friday, by whipping Vancouver, 13-7, on Pilseners' home ground.

The season's largest lower mainland crowd, 1,700, witnessed the defeat at Vancouver's Kerrisdale arena.

Shamrocks' win gave them a five-point bulge over the three teams tied for second place in the league. Pilseners, Nanaimo and Vancouver Indians.

The visiting 'Rocks sewed up the game in the first period, exploding for seven goals against the Pilseners' one marker.

Pils pulled within 4-7 early in the third frame, and kept it to 6-9 to the start of the final period.

Vancouver's John Cavallin charged after the game that referee Ernie Smith "leaned over backwards to Victoria" because he "once played for us."

MONAGHAN GETS FOUR
Bob Monaghan scored four goals for the Irish in his top individual performance of the season. Alan Gill and Nip O'Hearn and Bob Dobbie each contributed a pair.

The Rocks are now idle until Wednesday night when they host Nanaimo Timbermen at Memorial Arena.

The Timbermen play Pilseners at Nanaimo tonight.

BOXLA PRACTICE
Junior Shamrocks lacrosse team will hold a practice at Memorial Arena Sunday morning at 9:15.

Vancouver Island Viewpoint

From Up-Island Newspaper Editorial Columns

The Government Must Act Now

THE REVIEW, SIDNEY

Culminating tempestuous weeks and months of indecision and controversy over what type of transportation services would be ideal for the Canadian Gulf Islands, residents affected agreed at a largely-attended meeting at Mayne Island last week to appeal to the provincial government and place the case squarely in the hands of the highways department. The minister of highways, Hon. P. A. Gagliardi, will be urged to appoint a commission to study the islands' transportation requirements and set out a firm government policy which will ensure a practical service over a period of many years.

Speaking at Galiano Island the previous week, Evan Jones, deputy minister of highways, who was representing Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Mr. Gagliardi at the gathering and was speaking with the full authority of the government, made it clear that if the islanders could agree on a common aim in the field of transportation, the government would definitely come to their assistance. At the Mayne conference, representatives of all affected islands agreed on a firm policy. Now it remains for the government to fulfil its pledge without delay.

The Review is not suggesting for one moment that the islands haven't ferry transport today. Two reputable companies—one subsidized and the other unsubsidized—today service the area. But residents want assurance from the only competent authority, the provincial government, that service will be continued in the years which lie ahead. They've seen one service abandoned without much notice and they don't want to be caught in that way again.

Political Sawdust

THE COWICHAN LEADER

There is a lot of political sawdust around the head of B.C.'s Chief Justice these days as he conducts his second commission into the state of the forest industry.

Mr. Gibson is chief blower of the political sawdust surrounding the commission. He has made some serious charges, though any attempt to sift his evidence leads to the conclusion that his mark is not so much forest management licences as the government itself.

Even if one wishes to give Mr. Gibson the benefit of the doubt, his charges that B.C. Forest Products Ltd. used undue influence to forestall an appeal against its forest licence, are breaking down of their own accord. The prospective appellant himself is denying the allegations.

It is one thing to champion the rights of the small man. It is another to use the small man as a means of making political capital.

Mr. H. G. Munro, president of B.C. Forest Products, made it clear enough here recently that his firm did not regard the present licensing system as perfect. He went beyond that point, however, in defining the present problems of the industry to be the maintenance of the present working force and the ensuring of a perpetual forest crop. Whether or not it is admitted, the truth is that today the lumber industry has become an integrated operation, requiring millions in fresh capital to safeguard its future and to ensure maximum use of the tree.

Campbell River Telephones Near Automatic Operation

CAMPBELL RIVER — Campbell River's telephone system will be converted to automatic operation at 8 a.m. June 13.

The actual cut-over, culminating years of planning and work, will take only about two minutes, according to officials of the North-west Telephone Company.

Outstanding features of the new $400,000 system will include the inauguration of a new type of numbering system, suitable for incorporation in the international scheme which eventually will cover the whole continent. The new system will feature two letters and five numerical digits, with the Campbell River numbers beginning with ATwater 8, followed by four more digits.

In addition, fully-selective ringing will be brought into use. This means that party line telephone subscribers will hear only their own ring, and not those of others on the line.

With the inauguration of the new service in Campbell River, a new directory, covering the northern portions of Vancouver Island, including such points as Alert Bay, Sointula, Quadra Island, Port Hardy and Nimble, will go into effect.

Islands Bureau Proposes New Bridge Links

Join Saturna, Samuel, Mayne, Ministers Asked in Submission

By TONY DICKASON, Times Staff Reporter

PENDER ISLAND—Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi has under consideration a proposal to link Saturna, Samuel and Mayne Islands by two bridges, thus eliminating the long ship haul between various island points, it was learned today.

Blueprints outlining the suggested bridges have been presented to Mr. Gagliardi and Public Works Minister W. N. Chant by the Gulf Island Improvement Bureau of which Galiano, Mayne, and Saturna islands are members.

The bureau pointed out that building of the spans would save transportation costs to both operators and shippers by cutting time and distance, as well as improving frequency of service.

Completion of the bridge between North and South Pender islands was termed by the bureau as "a first step towards resolving the transportation difficulties which have existed in these islands for so many years."

It suggested the principle be further developed by construction of the other bridges.

At present, it is necessary for the Lady Rose to make a long side trip up Nany channel to reach Saturna. If the suggested bridges were completed, it would be possible for the ship to operate on almost a straight line from Steveston to Sidney, calling on all islands en route.

"We submit that the area under consideration is desperately in need of progressive improvement," the presentation to Mr. Gagliardi said.

"There are quite large tracts of farming land on all the islands, and years ago these farms were all productive, this is not the case today due to the progressive deterioration of transportation."

Our Story: PRINCE VALIANT SAILS HIS SHIPS EVER NORTHWARD UP THE DNEIPER RIVER. PEACE COMES WHEN THEY LEAVE THE LANDS OF THE WILD PATZINAKS AND ENTER THE COUNTRY OF THE POLIANS, WHOSE CHIEF CITY IS KIEV.

IT IS DECIDED IN COUNCIL THAT THEY ROW QUIETLY PAST KIEV IN THE NIGHT, SO THAT THEIR GREAT TREASURE MAY NOT TEMPT ITS PEOPLE.

"A SWIM IN THE MUDDY RIVER MIGHT BE ALL RIGHT FOR MEN, BUT IT IS TWO MONTHS SINCE I HAD A WARM, SCENTED BATH, MY HAIR FIXED, OR A NEW DRESS. WE STOP AT KIEV."

SO THAT IS WHY GAWAIN RIDES TO THE PALACE OF THE GREAT PRINCE OF KIEV, BEARING RICH GIFTS AND ANNOUNCING: "SIR VALIANT, KNIGHT OF KING ARTHUR'S ROUND TABLE, PRINCE OF THULE, AND HIS WIFE, ALETA, QUEEN OF THE MISTY ISLES, WISH TO VISIT YOU. WE HAVE JUST CONQUERED THE PATZINAKS AND SACKED THEIR CHIEF CITY. SO, WEARY OF OVER-EXERCISE, WE COME IN PEACE."

A FEW DAYS LATER THE GREAT PRINCE STANDS TO WELCOME THE PRINCE OF THULE AND HIS QUEEN. HE HAS LEARNED THAT THIS QUEEN HAD PUT A MADNESS ON THE DRAGDA KHAN SO THAT HE DANCED TO HIS DEATH, AND THAT SIR VALIANT WITH BUT SEVEN SCORE MEN HAD SACKED A CITY AND BROKEN THE SPIRIT OF A NATION. THIS HELPS HIM TO BE VERY, VERY COURTEOUS.

"VANITY," MURMURS ALETA. "THIS IS JUST PLAIN VANITY, BUT I LOVE IT!"

NEXT WEEK: Too much of a good thing.

BIG, TOUGH, OUTSPOKEN BERT THOMAS was still a hero to his family—and thousands of other well-wishers—after his defeat in the 48-degree waters of Juan de Fuca Strait. Reunited with wife, Marion, and 11-year-old daughter, Sharon Lee, aboard the steam yacht Skeena, Bert wisecracked to the girl: "Punkin, if you ever try to swim the Strait, I'll shoot you." But the ex-Marine himself is already planning on another try. (Times Photos on this page by Irving Strickland and Bill Halkett.)

EIGHT MILES SHORT OF MARK

'Brick Wall' Tide Beat Bert

By AB KENT
With eight wave-tossed miles remaining in his second bid to conquer 18-mile Juan de Fuca Strait, swim marathoner Bert Thomas was forced at 3.22 a.m. today to give up the most courageous Strait swim try to date after 10 hours 19 minutes and 40 seconds in 48-degree water.

The 29-year-old Tacoma logger and ex-U.S. Marine quit when churning waves in a "brick wall" tide five miles east of Race Rocks made further effort futile.

Twenty minutes earlier he had asked his boat crew, "When is dawn?" and stated, "I won't give up."

Rough water and adverse tide rips east of Race Rocks had been impeding his progress since midnight up to which time the swimmer had clear sailing from Horseshoe Bay where he entered the water at 5.03.20 Friday afternoon.

From the outlet, Thomas insisted things were "going fine," and when he boarded his official boat, the steam yacht Skeena, he said:

"I'm okay; I just wasn't making any headway. I'll tell you what—we've got another day coming up."

Asked when this might be, he said, "Soon."

Taken to a cabin bunk immediately, Thomas drank some hot chocolate, a little whisky and smoked a cigarette. In a few minutes he vomited and his jaw and hands trembled visibly.

"It's not the cold," he said, "It's the tension."

Thomas' blood circulation was "perfect," according to David Evans Sr., who helped care for the swimmer aboard the Skeena. Mr. Evans said his pulse was 55 per minute.

Not for 'Punkin'

Characteristically serious and frivolous alternately, Thomas tremblingly turned to his 11-year-old daughter Sharon Lee, who was aboard the yacht throughout the swim and admonished:

"Punkin, if you ever try to swim this Strait, I'm telling you, I'll shoot you."

His wife Marion, whose post was in the escort boat Water Tourist all the way, remarked:

"I think he did wonderfully. He was just going around in circles out there. He just couldn't seem to get away from that light (Race Rocks light-house)."

"I could have gone another 10 hours," Thomas added. Then, as tension came out and he began to feel nauseous, "I'll be truthful with you; I felt better in the water."

Swam 18 Miles

Considering his time in the Strait and the distance actually covered, estimated at 18 miles, Thomas emerged from the Strait in remarkably good condition.

In addition, he had been out of training two weeks while he visited his hometown, only arriving here for his second Strait challenge Wednesday afternoon.

Decision to swim Friday evening was made after a quick estimate of weather at noon Friday.

Most of the swim was made while UBC coed Pat Russell stroked two to three miles away in her first try at conquering Juan de Fuca. She was pulled from the water after seven hours of trying.

She's Okay

Said Thomas in tribute to her gallant effort:

"Say, that little Pat Russell did all right. As a Canadian she's okay—I'm proud of her. I really didn't think she could do it."

A powerful stroker himself, the former navy frogman maintained a 26-cycle stroke throughout his trial, dropping to 25 only during the last half hour when progress was virtually nil.

At 5.26 p.m. when asked how long he thought it would take him to reach Port Angeles, he stated flatly, "Nine hours."

The Strait then was calm, wind was variable but mostly light and a fine rain was falling. These conditions prevailed with small change until 7.30, when a slight chop developed and the rain stopped.

Headway Slowed

Wind rose to about six miles an hour, water remained choppy and headway was slowed until 8.45 when the Strait again became smooth.

SWIM ATTEMPTS ON TV TONIGHT

The gallant but futile attempts of Tacoma Bert Thomas and Vancouver coed Pat Russell to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca will be carried on television tonight.

Vancouver station CBUT (Channel 2) will show highlights of the swim during the 6.45 news. They may be shown again on the late news at midnight.

DAZED, BARELY CONSCIOUS, Pat Russell is held in the arms of her fiancé, John McDiarmid, after she was forced out of the water by the numbing cold. McDiarmid rowed escort boat throughout Pat's struggle against tides and cold.

BEFORE THE BIG SWIM Pat Russell and her father, Adrian Russell, of Vancouver, joked merrily, exuded confidence as she faced the supreme challenge of distance swims. Pat's sense of humor, her tendency to toss off puns and wisecracks, endeared her to swim fans.

Protesting Women Flying Here

Fraser Valley Hospital Demands Before Cabinet

Four plane-loads of women will descend on the Legislative Buildings Monday to demand priority for construction of a hospital in Surrey.

More than 65 women, the largest delegation from the Fraser Valley to meet the government, will press their case before the provincial cabinet.

They represent 18 women's auxiliaries of Surrey Memorial Hospital Society. The society has a membership of about 400.

WILL LOSE HEART
Heading the group will be Mrs. Mabel Tomer, prominent in women's organizations for the last 35 years.

She said: "The women who have been striving for a hospital in Surrey for the last nine years will lose heart unless we can go ahead and construct our hospital."

The provincial government is opposed to construction of a hospital at Surrey at the present time. Officials feel larger units at Vancouver and New Westminster should be expanded first.

Mrs. Tomer said: "We definitely feel frustrated after raising over $14,700 toward hospital funds."

Management Safety Parley Recommended

ASK The TIMES

Q.—I remember seeing Anna Pavlova at the Royal Theatre when I was a young woman. Was Nijinski her leading man then?

Q.—When one local organization wishes to correspond with another organization, should letters be addressed to the president or to the secretary?

J.M. A.—To the secretary, who is elected or appointed to conduct the correspondence of the organization. There is nothing wrong in addressing correspondence to the president, but in the course of his duties he will simply hand the communication to the secretary.

CHURCH PAGE

By LANCE WHITTAKER

Tomorrow is theological college Sunday in Anglican parishes throughout the province.

Speakers will lay stress upon the need for men to give full-time service to the church, and enlist support for the college, which trains these men.

The Church of England in Canada is critically short of clergy, as are most other denominations. In B.C. the total of those graduating annually from the theological college on the campus of the University of B.C. is less than half the number of those required to fill existing vacancies, and all graduates do not take up work in B.C.

IT IS A SINGULAR DEVELOPMENT of our time that many of the men now training for the priesthood—and this is true also of Union College, the United Church school—are men in their thirties, who have come to their choice of calling after several years of work and training in other occupations.

This is perhaps a good thing, that the ministry should have men of broad experience in the work-a-day world, but the training means considerable sacrifice for the men concerned, most of whom are married, and a heavier burden for the college, which must make the financial drain on the student as light as possible.

IF THERE IS ANY CONCLUSION to be drawn from the preponderance of older men studying for the ministry it must be that the churches and church people have failed in the work-a-day world, but the training means considerable sacrifice for the men concerned, most of whom are married, and a heavier burden for the college, which must make the financial drain on the student as light as possible.

To seek out and assist young people to the full-time service of the church should be the proud responsibility of every parish, every congregation.

IN FACT IT CAN BE ARGUED that the response of its young people to a life of sacrificial service is a legitimate measure of the spirituality and sincerity of any church.

Financing the work of the college is important, and it is hoped that every speaker on the subject will find a real reason for the need for the college, but more important by far is individual Christian witness so compelling and persuasive that the church shall never again be forced to say that the need for men cannot be met.

Esquimalt United Calls 2 Meetings

The Board of Christian Education of Esquimalt United Church will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. to discuss the congregational picnic planned for June 25 at the George Pringle Memorial Camp, Shawnigan Lake.

A special congregational meeting has been called for Thursday at 8 p.m. to discuss the possible purchase of a manse for the minister. A large attendance is hoped for.

Sunday School Group Ends Season Tuesday

Seasonal activities of the Greater Victoria Anglican Sunday School Teachers' Association conclude Tuesday at St. John's Church Hall, at 5 p.m.

U.S. CHURCH CENTRE—This is the preliminary sketch of the proposed United Church Centre to be located in New York City. The 17-story structure, which will occupy an entire block, will be the national headquarters of Protestant and Orthodox church groups in the United States. Planned for 20 years, the $14,000,000 building will house the offices of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and a number of its 30-member Communions, their boards and agencies.

BROADCAST SERMONIZING CRITICIZED

MONTREAL (BUP)—Churchmen were advised here to mind their radio manners, because religious broadcasts in Canada have nearly as much audience appeal as hockey games.

Dean James S. Thomson of McGill University's divinity school said during the 31st Montreal-Ottawa conference of the United Church that ministers tend to "sermonize" too much on the air. He said most of them failed to give enough thought to the way their services were presented.

Presbyterian Re-Examination Suggested

TORONTO (BUP)—Establishment of a committee to study "the specific task" of a Presbyterian in the world today was suggested to the church's 81st general assembly by its retiring moderator, the Rev. J. L. W. McLean of Victoria, B.C.

Dr. McLean said it was time the 1,900,000 Presbyterians in Canada re-examined themselves and the church to determine their proper place in the 20th century.

When the assembly opened Wednesday the retiring moderator said "A Presbyterian paralysis" existed because of disinterest and apathy on the part of church members.

The 1956 operating budget of the church was set at $1,200,000, or $100,000 more than last year's figure. Church expansion on a large scale was given as the main reason for the increase.

HOME NEXT WEEK
Dr. McLean will return to Victoria and his pulpit next week after a year of extensive travel as moderator of the church. During his absence, the congregation has been served by the Rev. Edgar Foreman, D.D.

A member of the church board said today, "Dr. Foreman's work here has been magnificent. He has won the affection of all at St. Andrew's."

The board hopes that Dr. and Mrs. Foreman will continue to reside in the city and serve the Presbyterian community here.

Hindu Upsurge Turns India Against Missions

TORONTO (CP)—The 81st general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was told Friday night India is turning against the missionary movement as a result of a tremendous upsurge in Hinduism and nationalism.

"I don't think I'll finish out my next five-year term in India before I'm asked to leave," said Rev. Russell Self of Toronto who has spent six years there.

"They are beginning to turn against the missionary movement and we must work with speed in the time left to us."

Mr. Self, 39, said India is a land of rigid religious customs and is economically poor because of it.

"They desperately need the Colombo and Point Four plans but they also need Christianity to wipe away old barriers and heathen customs holding the country back."

Mr. Self said United States missionaries have been virtually driven out because of U.S. foreign policy.

The Wedding Story

Though June is regarded as the perfect month for brides, no girl who plighted wedding vows during the lovely spring-tide will think her wedding day anything but ideal. Whenever it falls, it is the day of days in a woman's life and each of the brides pictured here reflects the inner radiance that each unfolding episode of the wedding story brings.

With the ceremony just over, gaily smiling, bride and groom leave the church to begin a new life together. For Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph A. M. van den Brink, it is even newer than most, for Mrs. van den Brink, the former Gerda Sier, flew over from Holland, making the trip in one day to keep her tryst at the altar of Our Lady of Lourdes Church. This new Canadian couple are making their home at 1422 Newport Avenue. Their attendants are Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Timpe. (Photo by Halkett.)

Newly husband and wife and facing the future with confident happiness are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Smith. The former Jeanie Marie Tomczyk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Tomczyk, Hillside Avenue, was married at St. Andrew's Cathedral in a double-ring ceremony conducted by Father J. Planeta. Her groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Winnipeg, and is a member of the Royal Canadian Navy. (Photo by Joncas.)

Receiving their friends before the flower-banked mantelpiece of the Olde England Inn, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chapman. The former Georgina Thom is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thom, 3282 Wicklow Street, and the bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Chapman, 916 Byng. They exchanged vows at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, with Rev. E. G. Thompson officiating. (Photo by Joncas.)

The bridal party is a closely united group from the time of the wedding rehearsals, right until the last assigned duties have been performed in the church. Mr. and Mrs. Ron Briggs happily stand for a moment with their complete wedding party to capture one of the perfect moments of their wedding day. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Rosalie Fisher, 2632 Scott Street, and her groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Briggs, 2843 Dewdney Avenue. Traditionally-garbed attendants complete the bridal picture. They are, left to right, Miss Carolyn Anderson, Miss Beverley Fisher, sister of the bride; Douglas Smith, Miss Kathleen Smith, William Vogler and Melvin Briggs. Guard of honor is made up of members of Victoria Girls' Drill Team, of which the bride was a member.

Arranged By
AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSTON
Social Department

The time will soon come when bride and groom set out on their honeymoon, as a prelude to their settling into the status of "young Mr. and Mrs." This charming bride, formerly Joyce Agnes Taylor, exchanged vows with Mr. Ivan Allen (Bill) Button, in a nuptial mass in Sacred Heart Church. Her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Button, Quadra Street. (Photo by Joncas.)

On the bridal morning, and throughout the wonderful day, until she departs on her honeymoon, the sisterhood between the bride and her attendants is at its sweetest and rarest. None more fully understands her emotions and dreams than these close friends or relatives she has chosen for her entourage. Mrs. Henry P. Fong, in one of those idyllic moments, poses with, at left, her matron of honor, Mrs. E. Fong, and bridesmaids, Miss Lona Hoy and Miss Ruby Chan. The bride is the former Sylvia Lee and she was married recently in First United Church to Mr. Henry Patrick Fong. She is the daughter of Mr. Heme Lee Woo, 2020 Blanshard Street, and he is son of Mrs. Fong Yong, 1617 Government Street. (Photo by Robert Fort.)

But when all is said and done, at the pinnacle of all this excitement and happiness the bride stands alone, a figure of beauty on which all attention is focussed. Mrs. James F. Perrin is the former Beverley Joan Taylor and she was married in Centennial United Church to the son of Mr. J. H. Perrin, Victoria. She is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Taylor, Crease Avenue. (Photo by Chevron.)

For the first time, signing her name as "Mrs. R. H. Rushton," is the former Miss Della Margueretta Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Evans, 3174 Carrol Street. Her groom is Mr. Robert Henry Rushton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Rushton of Edmonton. The young couple were wed in Holy Trinity Church, Edmonton, in a quiet, lovely ceremony. Rev. Canon W. M. Nainby, Edmonton, is seen with the wedding pair following the exchange of vows. Mr. and Mrs. Rushton are coming to Victoria this month to visit the parents of the bride, and will receive the good wishes and congratulations of many friends and relatives.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Trousseau Shopping Ideas
Specially for June Brides

By PENNY SAVER

This is the month of delicate lace and pastel hues, of orange blossoms and strains of Lohengrin. Yes, it's the month of brides. Shopping takes on a new meaning for the bride-to-be, and she wants the very best for this special day in her life. To complete her actual bridal ensemble, she'll want the traditional bride's garter. Either in a delicate pink or blue, or all white, these garters are frothy and feminine and made especially for the bride. Those I saw were of blue and white soft satin with a little rosette of satin centred with another pastel color. All around the edges is deep, French imported lace. The white satin binding, combined with the luxury of the lace, is the perfect choice.

These are selling at $1.50 each. If the bride prefers a pair, she may also choose the French imports in any of the three colors. A pair sells for $2.50. Yes, for most brides, the garter also carries through the "something blue". Each individual single garter comes in a plastic box, just the right size, tied with a delicate ribbon knotted with a little imitation wedding ring. The little sticker that says "Made in France" seems to add allure to it, too.

Bridal hosiery is important and special, too. She won't want too dark or too light a color, but one that gives a natural pinky tone to the skin. "Light Blush" is a favorite with most brides, for they're 66 gauge, 12 denier, and cost a reasonable $1.75. If she prefers the seam-less hosiery, the "Miss Rouge" shade will please her. It's 15 denier, and instead of gauge, it is measured by the number of needles used in the circular knit. In these, there are 400 needles. These are just $1.65.

As soon as I saw the beautifully made slip on display in a store, I thought immediately of the bride's selection of lingerie. Fashioned in six gores, the skirt is molded for a perfect fit. Around the bottom of the skirt, there is a pleated nylon flounce about four inches wide, and half way over this flounce is a layer of exquisite lace. The bodice is styled with deep insets of lace, both front and back, and the straps are a continuation of the matching lace. In one-inch wide bands. Around the top of the slip is a petit frill of pleated nylon tulle; just enough to complete the picture of femininity. This dream of a slip is just $7.95.

Red Cross Anniversary

Red Cross Home Emergency Service celebrated its eleventh anniversary with a delightful evening at the home of acting chairman, Mrs. W. H. Colley, 495 Coward Street, Saanich, when brief reference was made to the wartime inception of this useful community enterprise. The house was attractively decked with flowers, and the principal feature of the informal program was a group of readings in Yorkshire vernacular by Mrs. Ethel Hopwood.

Each guest also contributed an item by reciting the story of her "most unique experience", capped by the hostess' story of a frontier nursing incident in the Northern country. Home Emergency committee was represented by Mrs. Colley, Mrs. R. Coope, supervisor, Miss J. E. M. Bruce and Miss W. Dawson Thomas.

Staff workers included Mrs. C. Dodson, Mrs. I. M. Williams, Mrs. A. Toshack, Mrs. C. Jarvis, Mrs. M. Fracy, Mrs. G. Pepper, Mrs. M. A. Laverty, Mrs. E. Karvelis, and Miss M. A. Elkington. Mrs. Williams expressed the guests' thanks to the hostess.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

Sea Rangers—Parents and Guiders got a port-hole view of life aboard the Sea Ranger ship "Victory" when officers and crew celebrated their fifth anniversary with an "open house" muster at the Guide Hall, Pandora Avenue, Monday evening. The crew demonstrated their training in life-saving, and their adeptness in knot tying. Skipper, Miss L. Warne, assisted by mate, Miss E. De Kever, entertained the following cabin boys as Sea Rangers: Laurena Pellet, Edna Sudlow, Gill Scott-Moncrieff and Yvonne Riehl. Rangers, each holding a lighted taper representing the light of the love of mankind, and kneeling in anchor formation, renewed their promise to keep the Guide Law. There followed a lively rendition of the Sailors' Hornpipe, followed by songs around the campfire. James McCague, introduced by the Skipper, spoke of the various awards possible through the Life Saving Society and presented bronze medals to Lilian Warne, Evelyn De Kever, Doris Nikaisin, Patricia Townsend, Elizabeth Ciceri and Pamela Watkins, for her sister Joyce who was not present. Refreshments were served after the flag was lowered, and the program closed on a note of goodfellowship with the Sea Rangers singing "Don't Give Up the Ship."

Field Day—The Guides of Sooke Division, Saanich Division and Greater Victoria Division participated in a Field Day at Topaz Park last week. Competitions were arranged by Mrs. H. Pidd, Area Camp Advisor, to show the activities of camping. Guides made their campsites with tents, flagpoles and campfires, and when guests arrived, Land and Sea Rangers formed the divisional flag break. A short devotional followed the singing of God Save the Queen. Brownies under the direction of Mrs. Sharples and Mrs. Reid performed two dances. Mrs. W. S. Emmerton, Mrs. R. Scott-Moncrieff and Mrs. J. Hunter were judges, assisted by the Sea Rangers. Refreshments were provided by the District Local Associations and the Sea Rangers. Mrs. Underwood, Mrs. Dufton and Mrs. Aitkin, members of St. John Ambulance Association, judged the First Aid.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Tall Girls Stand Erect
And Be Proud of Height

I have had a lot of interesting letters recently as a result of columns I wrote about tall girls. One before me says:

"It makes my blood boil to read of a girl six feet tall who is touchy about her height. Ruining her life, indeed!"

"Limelight is the natural heritage of us tall girls. Unlike our shorter sisters we do not have to bleach our hair, wear wired clothing or develop an unusual personality in order to attract attention. All we have to do is to stand erect, groom ourselves immaculately and just be ourselves. Admiration literally flows our way."

"Being tall in this day and age certainly holds no inconveniences. Seven-foot beds now are available, and there are at least four Tall Girl Clothing Shops in the city in which I live. The average height is increasing too. Tall men are looking for tall mates. Why should a girl complain?"

"I, for one, will show my gratitude for my six feet plus by holding my head high and being proud of every inch."

It is true that many girls and women who are quite a bit above average in height are self-conscious about it. It is also true that this is very foolish, not only because height actually can be an asset rather than a handicap. I do wish to impress upon tall women, and especially on tall teen-agers, how tremendously important good posture is to you. Of course it is important to everyone but especially to the person who is taller than usual. Nothing will call attention to your height more than slumping forward. Nothing makes a man or woman more fascinating looking than gallant posture and carriage. When extra height is a part of the picture it can be really stunning! I mention teen-agers particularly because they are growing so rapidly that they have a tendency to become round shouldered anyway.

ASK EQUAL RETIRING RIGHTS

—VANCOUVER (CP)—A recommendation that women in civic service be given equal retirement rights with men was supported Friday by the Vancouver Business and Professional Women's Club.

The recommendation was first proposed by Ald. Anna Spott.

"Women are now proving they have the ability to work equally with men," the women's club said.

They should be given equality as to the retirement age.

City hall personnel committee said it would study the recommendation that both men and women be retired at 65. Women employees are now retired at 60.

In Step With Style

By NONA DAMASKE

The Brides' Mother—Poised and gracious—that is the way mother will want to appear on her daughter's wedding day and when she says "Mother you look simply terrific" and your husband declares "You are more beautiful than the day we were married" you will know you have chosen wisely.

For the spring or summer wedding you might choose a fine lace as we have done for Mrs. McConnachy or you may prefer a crepe which perhaps would be of more use to you on future occasions. If the wedding is to be informal you could wear a silk print providing the coloring is soft and the pattern not too bold. A two-piece silk suit, for the small wedding, would also be most useful in your summer wardrobe.

This is the time when you should really splurge on a pretty hat. Large hats are again in the picture and they are so flattering to the tall, stately woman. If you are not so tall how about a small brimmed straw with a gay rose shooting up from the crown to give you added inches. For the formal wedding the hat should match the gown in color but may be of a contrasting shade for the informal ceremony. Remember that you will be wearing a corsage so keep your jewelry very simple. If there is any doubt as to gloves, white kid will do for all occasions.

Poised and gracious, we greet the lovely mother of the bride.

QUESTION BOX

Dear Kathleen: I am so glad you enjoyed the article on synthetics. The fabric which you had given to you for a suit will be ideal for that purpose. It is a product of the Canadian Celanese Corporation and has only been on the market a very short time. The satin back of the material will relieve you of the necessity of lining the skirt back.

Mrs. E. McConnachy wears a stunning gown for the occasion of a formal wedding. The designer has kept in mind the fact that this dress will be worn by a mature woman. The use of small patterned imported cotton lace, cross-over surplice bodice, dropped waistline and gently-flared skirt combine to perfection in this regal gown. The New York model hat of lustrous milliners plush and twisted mohair has a fine face veil with diamante trim.

Youth Not Alone
In Adventure Quest

TORONTO (CP)—"Fancy and the weather" will guide a 51-year-old Toronto woman on a six-week bicycle tour of England and Ireland this summer. "Too many people leave adventure to the young these days," says Estella McBride, "hope to be still pushing my bicycle around seeing places 10 years from now."

Miss McBride, who has already cycled through many parts of eastern Canada and the United States, took up cycling 10 years ago to satisfy her "spirit of adventure."

Secretary to a United Church of Canada official, she rides her bicycle to work every day.

"The traffic doesn't worry me," she says. "I just ignore it."

Says Women Muffed
Chance to Improve
Living Conditions

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. H. E. Vautelet of Montreal, national president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, says she thinks women have muffed their opportunity to improve society during the last 50 years.

However, she told the Ontario branch meeting of her organization Wednesday, the solution gives them a second chance to accomplish something.

"Women have been too willing to accept men's viewpoint on their responsibilities," she said. "A good woman used to be one who stayed at home... But cooking a delicious meal is second to making sure the ingredients of the meal are good."

"Creating informed consumers is a necessity for the survival of our ways of life."

Widely Known Mainland Singer Sees Britain
Before Becoming Bride of Business Executive

LONDON (CP)—Betty Phillips, lyric soprano and actress from Vancouver, is keeping a life-long promise with herself to see Britain before taking the matrimonial plunge and settling down in her home city.

Her fiancée, Richardson Whitehead, a lumber business executive, is waiting at home while Betty looks at England. "He's quite willing for me to get it out of my system," said Betty.

She shares a house in London's northwest Golfers Green district with three other Canadian artists and a Welsh school teacher "who keeps us in order." The communal existence shares with Lois McLean of Calgary and Edmonton, and fellow-Vancouverites Sheila MacKenzie and John R. Milligan, is more economical, says Betty, "sharing food, expenses and all." Their menu fluctuates between steaks and spaghetti according to the pace of engagements.

To date it has been mostly steaks for Betty, who has appeared on BBC radio and television several times. She has a summer show lined up on the Isle of Wight and maybe a west end tour later.

For the home wedding, Mrs. McConnachy models a Queen's blue nylon lace frock. The rippling pattern of the lace is delicate and extremely fine. Jewel touches trim the square neckline, the bracelet-length sleeves are softly shirred and the skirt has a moderate flare. The large, black hat is a double-stitched mohair braid-trimmed with French velvet.

Because they are so fashionable, Mrs. McConnachy shows you another large-brimmed hat. This one is white Milan straw with a shallow crown and a large white velvet bow at the front. A perfect accessory for a summer garden wedding.

Traditional Lace and Net Gown Worn by Bride, Pam Douglass

A full length billowing wedding gown of delicately fashioned net and lace was chosen by Friday evening's bride, Miss Pamela Mae Douglass, who married Victor Lawrence Shemilt in a ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church. White lace net layers of net in the attractively styled front of the gown. A lace fitted bodice had a sweetheart neckline of seeded pearls and sequins, and long sleeves tapered into lily points at the wrists. A finger tip veil of bordered lace was caught with a coronet of sequins and pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls and matching earrings, a gift of the groom, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley.

The charming bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brooke Douglass, 1317 Point Street, and her groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shemilt, Sr., 3255 Harriet Road. Canon George Biddle officiated, and soloist, boy soprano, Terry McBratney, sang "The Wedding Song." Matron of honor was Mrs. Shemilt Jr., brother of the groom, and ushers were Reginald Midgley and Allen Ball.

Pink, white and blue streamers with white wedding bells and spring flowers decorated White Eagle Hall for the gay reception which followed. A wedding cake topped with lily of the valley centred the bride's table. About 250 guests danced to the music of the "Hometowners." Ford Bond proposed the toast to the bride's happiness. For a honeymoon trip Up Island and on the Mainland, the bride chose as her going-away outfit, a blue wool knitted suit complemented with white accessories and a white wool shortie coat. Her corsage was of deep red roses.

Chocolate Soldier

'CHOCOLATE SOLDIER' SPECTACULAR ON C-4 TONIGHT AT 6

GOOD NEWS, WRITERS—Just when TV producers everywhere are crying out for good scripts, the University of British Columbia announces a course in "Writing for Television and Radio."

The new course will be added to the curriculum in the 1955 edition of Summer School of the Arts on the UBC campus. The classes will be in session from July 4 until August 20.

Robert Allen, CBC television producer, will instruct evening classes in TV and radio writing as part of the University Extension Department's 15th annual summer arts program. The new evening class will be held from 6 to 9 p.m., Monday to Friday, July 18 to Aug. 13.

The TV class will include record and film material from radio and TV shows, as well as demonstrations of floor plans, editing and rehearsing. Students will be asked to write at least one script for class criticism.

Registration is now open for the course at the extension office, located in the small green army huts near the football stadium on campus. Information on class scheduling is available at the same office.

Good for UBC!

NOW HERE ARE the week-end TV highlights in order of their appearance:

6:00: Channel 4—Oscar Straus' beloved opera, "The Chocolate Soldier," is the treat of the evening's entertainment. Starring Rise Stevens, Eddie Albert and Akim Tamiroff, it tells the adventures of a pastry cook who flees battle and bumps into romance. This is an hour-and-a-half color spectacular.

Channel 5—The show most children (and adults) love, Super Circus.

6:45: Channel 3—Bert Thomas and Pat Russell swim films.

7:00: Channel 5—An hour's amateur boxing from Seattle.

7:30: Channel 4—Horace Heidt's Show Wagon reaches Denver, Colo.

8:00: Channel 11—Jackie Gleason will attempt to complete one of the funniest and most hectic shows he ever did. Called "Stand-In for Murder," the plot has Gleason playing a double role, as Ralph Kramden and a gang leader. When it was first shown time ran out and viewers never did see the ending. Maybe tonight's the night. An older Gleason show occupies Channel 2.

8:30: Channel 12—Texas wrestling.

9:00: Channel 4—Dana Andrews, John Ireland and Richard Conte star in "A Walk in the Sun," possibly the best movie of the night.

10:30: Channel 4—Your Hit Parade. In addition to the top seven hit tunes, the singers and dancers will offer "Tea for Two" and "One O'clock Jump."

Channel 11—Damon Runyon Theatre stars Ann Harding and Allen Jenkins in "Lonely Heart," about a waiter and the hangers-on at the eating-place called Mindy's.

11:00: Channel 2—Hollywood wrestling.

SUBSTITUTE ARM which enables Marv Pulliam, paralyzed polio victim from Los Angeles, Calif., to use an electric typewriter, feed himself, drink from a glass and do other things previously impossible was designed and built by friends. The friends, employed at North American Aviation works, used facilities of the plant with management's approval and took eight months to perfect the arm. The device, called a "Sabre Arm," is hydraulically operated and may soon be manufactured on a non-profit basis to benefit others like Mr. Pulliam. (NEA Photo.)

FATEFUL WEEK-END

Auto Negotiators Reach 11th Hour

DETROIT (UP)—The CIO United Auto Workers, pressing to wrap up an unprecedented annual wage package for its million-odd members, launched a fateful week-end of negotiations with Ford and General Motors today.

What happens at the week-end talks could have an important bearing on the entire national economy.

Besides the issue of labor peace or strikes the question of the guaranteed annual wage was at stake.

If the talks fall through, the national economy could be hit sharply by a crippling auto strike. A strike would affect many other industries dependent on automobile production.

But a guaranteed annual wage issue also could have a snap bearing on the rest of the nation.

If the union wins the annual wage for the nearly half million workers at Ford and General Motors it would quickly be extended to the union's other members. Other industries might also follow suit just as they have followed other precedent-setting steps of the auto industry in the past, such as the cost-of-living contract in 1950.

Never before has the union brought wage drives against two major auto companies to a climax at the same time.

CIO President Walter Reuther appeared hopeful that week-end talks scheduled with both companies would help him bring to bear enough pressure to force through his annual wage demand.

The union contract with Ford will run out Monday, and the union has said it will strike unless a settlement is reached before then. The General Motors contract runs out Tuesday.

Car Makers in U.S. Cut Back Production

Detroit Output at Lowest Level Since Start of Year; '56 Models to Roll Soon

By WALTER BREEDER Jr.
NEW YORK (AP)—Auto production in the United States dropped this week to its lowest level of the year, but activity in most other lines held close to record levels. Things hummed in steel production, coal mining, heavy construction, rail-freight traffic and electric-energy consumption.

Cutbacks in auto production reflected sporadic walkouts and the Memorial Day holiday, but it was evident most automakers would have slashed their output anyway. Ward's Automotive Reports estimated the week's production at 132,774 cars and 25,243 trucks against 167,455 and 38,727 the week before.

Detroit sources said most manufacturers had scheduled June-July cutbacks long before company-union talks on the Guaranteed Annual Wage reached the crisis point. This year U.S. automakers have built more than 3,709,000 cars, against 2,500,000 at the same time last year. Inventories are at an all-time high of 800,000. At least seven manufacturers are expected to shut down in the next two months to start production of 1956 models.

The consensus seemed that brisk activity in other fields would offset the auto decline. Department store sales for the week ended May 29 were 10 per cent higher than the same week of 1954; retail sales, Dun and Bradstreet said, ranged from 4 to 8 per cent higher than a year ago.

Trade observers said declines in auto purchases would free vast sums of consumer dollars for other purposes. Vacation resorts might get the lion's share.

Automobile purchases sparked a whirlwind rise of more than $500,000,000 in the total instalment debt of the American people during April. At month's end instalment indebtedness was $23,500,000,000, a record high.

Pac. Western Airlines to Take in QCA

VANCOUVER (CP)—Longtime rivals Pacific Western Airlines and Queen Charlotte Airlines merged Friday to become the third largest air service in Canada.

A joint statement issued by the two companies said QCA had given PWA an option to purchase it for an undisclosed sum.

The merger and option followed the renewal of an earlier offer to purchase made by PWA.

Veteran flyer F. Russell Baker, manager of PWA, will take over the active management of the new airlines which will retain the name of Pacific Western Airlines.

A. J. Spilsbury, president of QCA, will continue in an executive capacity.

No major changes in management, staff or services are planned. PWA now is second only to Trans-Canada and Canadian Pacific in point of number of routes, air miles and scope of operation. It equals both in number of aircraft in its fleet.

PWA now operates 34 planes and the QCA fleet numbers 20 on the British Columbia coast and eight in northern operations.

Work to Start On $20 Million Que. Smelter

QUEBEC CITY (BP)—Premier Maurice Duplessis says construction of a $20,000,000 smelter and refinery at Chicoutimi, Que., will begin immediately.

The Eastern Smelting & Refining Company plant will process nickel and copper ores from the newly-developed Lake Chibougamau area.

Duplessis said Andrew Robertson, president of the company, had informed him this week that preliminary engineering and financial arrangements had been completed and construction will be started without delay.

The premier forecast the new plant will lead to development of a chemical fertilizer industry at Chicoutimi.

An announcement in Ottawa that the Canadian National Railways would construct a line from Chibougamau at St. Feli, Que., was "heartwarming news," the premier said.

Devalued Peso Reduces Earnings

TORONTO (CP)—Devaluation of the Mexican peso "seriously affected" the 1954 earnings of the Mexican Light and Power Company Ltd., the company disclosed in its annual report.

The net profit was reduced to $2,29,706, or 83 cents a common share, compared with $3,777,339 or $1.65 a share in 1953.

Current assets at Dec. 31, 1954 were $9,773,822, compared with $8,292,852 at the end of 1953, while current liabilities were $8,128,173, compared with $10,639,750 at the end of 1953.

American Motors Cuts Staff 20%

MILWAUKEE (CP)—American Motors Corp., producer of Nash and Hudson automobiles, announced Friday that 3,400 workers at its two Wisconsin plants will be laid off in a "downward adjustment in production."

The layoffs, effective Tuesday, represent a 20 per cent cut in the production force in plants here and in Kenosha, Wis.

Vancouver Man Heads Canadian Travellers

EDMONTON (CP)—H. M. Tucker of Vancouver was elected Friday dominion president of the Associated Canadian Travellers. He succeeds H. F. Shaw, Sudbury, Ont.

Regional vice-presidents elected include: D. McCunn, Brandon, Man.; M. L. Sterzer, Yorkton, Sask.; C. S. McNabb, Edmonton. R. D. Buchan of Calgary, secretary-treasurer, was appointed general manager of the association.

WEEK-END REVIEW

Toronto Industrial Index Climbs To New High; Ends Week at 405.5

By HENRY BAKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Powerful waves of buying swept the major Canadian and United States stock exchanges this week, sending prices to near-record levels.

Industrial issues set the trend in both Toronto and New York, with demand heaviest in the last two sessions. Toronto industrials were particularly strong and enthusiasm spread to golds, western oils and base metals.

Weekly gains of $2 and more in blue-chip stocks were common. Many lower-priced mining issues recorded gains of more than $1.

MCINTYRE UP $7

Several issues had even sharper climbs. McIntyre went ahead $7 to $31.12½ among golds and International Paper $8.50 to $106.50 in industrials.

The surge has financial experts stumped. They have been predicting for months that a corrective sell-off action is just around the corner. Yet prices continue to rise.

Steels and motors were strong in both Toronto and New York. Toronto industrial index hit an all-time high Friday and ended at 405.50, up 2.35 on the week. Golds, western oils and base metals were strong. The last group reaching the highest index levels since 1952.

The Associated Press average, based on 60 key Wall Street stocks, climbed $1.30 to $66.60, a gain of $1.70.

BULLISHNESS GENERAL

In Toronto trading speeded up as prices climbed with bullishness spreading to uraniums and lower-priced mining stocks.

Volume was 7,000,000 shares Friday. Number of issues traded and value of transactions during the last five months nearly equal figures for all 1954.

Between $1 and $2 higher among Toronto industrials were Algoma, Aluminium, Ford A, Transmountain Pipe Line, Southern and CPR.

Canadian Car went ahead $5.50, Canadian Car A $4.50, Canadian Dredge $3.25 and Hindle and Dauche $3.

Canadian Vickers dropped $5, General Dynamics $4.50 and Westons 13.50.

Noranda registered the biggest advance among base metals gaining $2.75, followed by Geco, $1.87½, Quebec Lithium $1.37½ and International Nickel $1.25. Steep Rock went up .95 to $10.50.

Gunnar shot up $2.62½ among leading uraniums and Canadian Collieries and Gridoil were way out in front in western oils, bouncing ahead $2 and $1.25 respectively.

In Montreal a heavy buying wave hit the last two sessions. Papers, utilities, senior oils and beverages showed strength. Mines also moved up.

Weekly index gains at Toronto: industrials 2.35 to 405.50, golds 1.33 to 85.21, base metals 2.82 to 187.02, western oils 2.08 to 109.70.

Week's volume: 28,015,000 shares. Previous week: 18,716,000. Stocks advancing 377; declining 243; unchanged 130.

Weekly index changes at Montreal: banks off .02 to 46.77, utilities up 2.3 to 128.2, industrials up 4.6 to 277.9, combined up 3.9 to 228.0, papers up 22.89 to 139.61 and golds off .32 to 82.55.

Week's volume: 370,831 industrials and 2,103,809 mines. Stocks advancing 174; declining 133, unchanged 118.

Rail Issues Creep Close to 1929 Peak

All Sections of New York Market Reflect New Surge of Buying Activity by Americans

By ELMER C. WALZER, United Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks all but scaled new bull market highs in more active trading during the holiday-shortened week just ended.

Trading picked up to a daily average of 2,427,630 shares, against 2,028,083 shares last week and the best since the week ended April 29.

The Dow-Jones industrial average closed the week at 428.53, up 2.87 points from the previous week's close and off 2.11 points from the record high set on April 26.

The railroad average came within 21 cents of its high since Oct. 6, 1929, by closing the week at 161.31 up 2.47 points on the week. Utilities were a point under their high at 64.41 up 0.56 on the week.

The Dow-Jones industrial average closed the week at 428.53, up 2.87 points from the previous week's close and off 2.11 points from the record high set on April 26.

If some of the wide gainers had been included in the group making up the averages the rise would have been much greater and the market would have surpassed all previous highs for the industrials.

Two merger issues—Sperry Corp. and Remington Rand—featured in advance and the new company issue—Sperry Rand—was an outstanding favorite late in the week.

There were wide gains in many of the rails. Oils peaked up late in the week with non-average group issues starring. Chemicals had their strong spots among some of the best issues on the board. Selected building and electronic issues ruled strong.

AIRLINES STRONGER

There were strong spots in the glass issues and many specials moved up sharply. Airline stocks joined the rails on the upside in a general gain in the transportation group.

Automobile issues moved ahead late in the week as Wall Street shook off fears of an automobile strike. A belief that the steel companies will settle

Air Squadrons Inadequate, Says Pearkes

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, said Friday night the number of RCAF CF-100 squadrons is "totally inadequate to provide an effective interceptor force" against an air attack on Canada.

"Auxiliary squadrons, which should be the backbone of home defence, are still equipped with obsolete Second World War aircraft," charged the Progressive Conservative military critic, member of the Commons for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Speaking on the CBC trans-Canada network in the free-time political broadcast series, "The Nation's Business," Gen. Pearkes also said:

1. The navy should have atomic weapons, shipborne guided missiles and a stronger fleet air arm.

2. The army needs more homes for soldiers based in Canada—"To have left major units of the army without homes for seven or eight years is inexcusable."

3. "National pride at least" should prompt the defence department to replace American troops who will man the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line with Canadians "as soon as they can be trained."

4—"A complete overhauling" of civil defence plans is required.

Plant, Slemon Advised to Quit

Retired Adjutant-General Raps Officers on Recent Statements

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj. Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, recently retired adjutant-general of the Canadian Army, said Friday that senior military officers who disagree with government policy should resign and then hire a hall.

In a letter to the Ottawa Journal—printed on the front page—Gen. Macklin refers to remarks this week by Air Marshal Roy Slemon, chief of air staff, and Air Vice-Marshal John L. Plant, RCAF air member for technical services.

Gen. Macklin writes, in part: "During more than 30 years in the Canadian Army, in ranks varying from private to major-general, I was consistently taught, and passed on the teaching, that it is the business of serving officers to carry out the policies of our constitutionally elected representatives."

"If senior responsible officers disagree with these policies, they can always resign. . . ."

"After that they are free to hire halls and give tongue to their ideas like any other citizens."

HEADS SWELLED

"I have been a strong supporter of the RCAF for a good many years, but it is beginning to look as if the power of the engines, and the weapons placed in their hands by science, has caused some of them to begin to suffer from delusions of grandeur."

"The government of the United States has had some trouble with officers still in uniform sounding off on matters of high policy that are the responsibility of government."

"It is to be hoped that our government will quell any such tendencies in Canada. They are dangerous."

Air Marshal Slemon said at Montreal Wednesday that Canada and the U. S. are moving toward a unified air defence system and an over-all supreme commander.

TV Highlights for the Week

By PHIL LEE
Times TV Editor

The week forthcoming promises to be one that makes owing a television set more than worthwhile.

Not only are there solid plays, a glittering Shower of Stars musical, better-than-average movies, but a world welterweight fight thrown in for good measure.

The fight comes off Friday on Channel 4 at 7. And, of course, pits champion Tony DeMarco against Carmen Basilio in a 15-rounder in Syracuse, N.Y. This is expected to be excellent.

The Shower of Stars, booked for 8:30 Thursday on Channel 11, is a glittering affair. Among the performers will be Edgar Bergen and pal Charlie McCarthy, Betty Grable and hubby Harry James, Gene Nelson, Jack Oakie, Dan Dailey, Tony Martin, Ethel Merman, Red Skelton, Dick Foran, Shirley MacLaine and Marilyn Maxwell. Need we say more?

As for the balance of the week's TV entertainment highlights, let's take them in order of their appearance, shall we?

MONDAY

8:30, Channel 5: Howard Barlow and his concert orchestra will offer a jilting program featuring the lovely voice of mezzo-soprano Mildred Miller in songs by Berlin, Grieg-Forest, Rossini and Rodgers. The chorus will be heard in Kern's "Who?" while the orchestra will play the tinkling "Wedding of the Painted Doll."

10:30, Channel 4: Barbara Britton will star in "Now or Never" on the Robert Montgomery Presents program. It's the story of Liz and Jack who once fell in love on a train. (Personally we have grown to respect Montgomery's plays. In our opinion they rank among the top three or four dramatic offerings seen on television today).

TUESDAY

7:30, Channel 11: On his See It Now program commentator Ed Murrow "Reports on Cigarettes and Lung Cancer" in talks with leading medical authorities and representatives of the tobacco industry.

8, Channel 4: The dashing Errol Flynn is slated to appear on Martha Raye's program.

9, Channel 2: Vancouver singer Kelvin Service will compete with Pick the Stars as the nation-wide talent draws near its climax.

9:30, Channel 4: March of Medicine shows the role of the pathologist in determining cancer. Scenes are those taken at the Walter Reed hospital in Washington, D.C.

Channel 5: "Hung for a Sheep" is the title of U.S. Steel Hour's play and stars Hugh Marlowe, George MacCreedy and Don Briggs. It's about a mild-mannered man who, sud-

Semenick Drug Appeal Hearing Here

VANCOUVER (CP)—The appeal of William Semenick against a conviction of drug trafficking was transferred Friday to the September sitting of the B.C. Court of Appeal in Victoria.

Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran announced the transfer after Semenick's counsel, James J. Sutherland, said it would be impossible to prepare his case during the current session, which ends June 30.

Semenick was sentenced to 10 years in prison more than a month ago by Mr. Justice J. M. Coady. Also transferred to the fall sitting was the appeal of convicted bank robber Daniel Hadden, serving 15 years for the robbery of a West Vancouver bank last Dec. 3.

His lawyer, T. F. Hurley, said the delay would enable Hadden to raise the money necessary to prepare appeal books.

The appeals of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. and Bartram Paper Products Co. Ltd., who were fined $3,000 and $7,000 a month ago in the paper combine conspiracy case were also transferred to the September sitting.

Also transferred was the appeal of eight jurors who sued the Southern Co. Ltd., A. W. Moscarrella, H. H. C. Anderson and Eric Nicol for libel.

The suit arose from the murder trial of William Gash, whose death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. The jurors contended an article written by Mr. Nicol libelled them. The action was dismissed.

Strait Swims Told in Pictures

Cruel Cold, Powerful Tides Combine to Defeat Gallant Challengers of Stubborn Strait

Cruel cold and stubborn tides spelled finis for two courageous challengers of the Strait of Juan de Fuca early this morning. At 3.20 a.m. ex-Marine Bert Thomas of Tacoma was pulled into his escort boat, still protesting he'd "beat it yet." As consolation, Thomas could claim longer time in Strait's chilly waters than any other swimmer. Shown with Bert seconds after he left the water are Lionel Dickson,

Thomas Still Strong After 10-Hour Ordeal

Bert Thomas proved amazing strength of his rugged 250-pound physique when he was able to chat with friends soon after his more than 10-hour ordeal in frigid Strait waters. Aboard his pilot vessel, the steam yacht Skeena, he talked with owner James Barber and skipper Ed Brownlee, showed little effects of his tough battle. (Times Photo by Strickland.)

Thomas May Make New Attempt This Week-End

Craig Ready To Appear Before Probe

Tofino logging operator Sammy Craig may appear before the Sloan forestry commission next week, according to his counsel, Victoria lawyer Arthur Burns.

Mr. Burns said Mr. Craig is prepared to appear before Chief Justice Gordon Sloan on "48 hours notice". One report is that Craig will be called on Wednesday.

Mr. Craig's appearance was demanded Thursday by former M.L.A. Gordon Gibson, who earlier charged Craig of accepting 26,000,000 feet of timber from B.C. Forest Products to withdraw his appeal against the firm's forest management licence application.

Mr. Craig was quoted as stating Mr. Gibson's evidence was "untruthful", and Mr. Gibson demanded he appear to clear his name of "perjury".

EXPERTS DUBIOUS

Will Strait Ever Be Conquered?

Despite the courageous overnight attempts of Bert Thomas and Pat Russell, some experts are still dubious the Strait of Juan de Fuca can ever be crossed by a swimmer.

Archie McKinnon, who was Florence Chadwick's coach in the original strait swim last year, said, "They both made a really valiant attempt. But I must be honest; I still think it is a bit too tough. But on that matter I would be quite happy to eat my hat."

A local pilotage authority, who asked that his name be withheld, said, "I must agree with the many people who say that the swim will never be made because of the cold. Both Thomas and Miss Russell did remarkably well but I think that is as close as anyone will ever come to swimming the Strait."

Harold Elworthy, president of Island Tug and Barge, declined comment on any indications the swim may have pointed out but said, "They both made a wonderful showing on a huge undertaking. I am particularly proud of Pat Russell, a Canadian girl who did so well in the face of a terrible ordeal."

'I Feel Too Good to Quit Now' He Says; Pat Russell May Try Again in Fall

FACTS AND FIGURES ON SWIMS

	Start	Finish	Elapsed	Approx. Distance from Victoria
Bert Thomas	5.03 p.m.	3.22 a.m.	10 hrs. 19 mins.	12 miles
Pat Russell	5.55 p.m.	1.13 a.m.	7 hrs. 28 mins.	9.5 miles
Thomas (1st attempt)	10.00 p.m.	2.10 a.m.	4 hrs. 10 mins.	6 miles
John Giese	10.30 p.m.	11.10 p.m.	40 mins.	1/2 mile
Flo Chadwick	5.00 a.m.	10.11 a.m.	5 hrs. 11 mins.	4.5 miles

*This figure is the calculated distance the swimmer was from takeoff point when swims end. With tides and winds affecting a swimmer he or she may have actually covered a much greater distance through the water.

(See Pages 3 and 13 for more pictures and detailed swim stories.)

After the greatest effort made yet to conquer the bone-chilling Strait of Juan de Fuca Bert Thomas, the husky ex-marine from Tacoma, said today he'll make another attempt, possibly this week-end.

"I'm going at it again. I'm going Sunday if the weather is okay. If not Sunday I'll go Monday," he said.

Thomas finished more than 10 hours in the rugged strait at 3.22 a.m. today, defeated by wind and tide rather than his own swimming ability.

He stayed in the water three hours longer than Pat Russell, the UBC co-ed, who took to the water an hour after he did late Friday in a dual challenge on the Strait which gripped the imagination of most Victorians.

Miss Russell was pulled from the water at 1.13 a.m. in a state of exhaustion and mild shock and spent the balance of the night in Jubilee Hospital as a precaution.

However, she suffered no serious ill-effects and her assistant coach, John McDiarmid, said:

"Pat's up and around at the hospital, hollering for us to come and get her."

He said there is a definite possibility she may try again, perhaps in the fall. Originally she planned only one attempt, but after doing so well might make another.

Although the Strait—labelled last year by Florence Chadwick as the "Mount Everest" of swims—remains unconquered, the overnight attempt gripped the imagination of thousands of Victorians.

Many stayed up half the night listening to "stroke by stroke" radio descriptions of the swim.

The amazing performance of Bert Thomas led many observers to believe that, given a real break on weather plus tides, he has a good chance to make the crossing.

He had thought he could make it in about 10 hours, but it appeared his pace was not quite fast enough to take full advantage of the tides.

Although he kept swimming more than that period he still had 7 or 8 miles to go when his navigator Hugh Evans called it off. He was about 12 miles off the Victoria waterfront at that time, but probably had covered considerably more distance through the water. Tide had set in against him, and he made little forward progress in the last two hours. A freshening 10-mile-an-hour wind which raised a bit of a chop, did not help.

But he came out of it, though sorely disappointed, in good physical condition with pulse normal despite the 48-degree water and the tension built up by 10 hours of fighting tides and waves.

"There I was," he said this morning, "with a quarter million bucks staring me in the face and I had to pack it up. (He was apparently referring to what he might make as a professional swimmer of world renown.)

"Today I feel great, just a few sore muscles," he said. "I feel too good to sit still. I've got to try again."

NOT BOTHERED

"The water was ideal until the last three hours. The cold didn't bother me at all."

Both swimmers were eligible for the Times' $1,000 prize, posted for the first swimmer to make the crossing.

Weather conditions at starting time—early Friday evening—were the best for any Strait attempt since the Times and Bapco Paint sponsored Florence Chadwick's try last year. Unlike Flo, they met no choppy seas during the first hours of the race.

But after midnight, the wind made up, and a stiff chop added to the difficulties both swimmers encountered with tides.

Eden Drafts Back-to-Work Plea As Rail-Strike Layoffs Soar

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden today was drafting a "back to work" appeal to striking railwaymen whose week-old walkout is tightening a strangle grip on British industry.

The prime minister addresses the nation by radio Sunday night from his country estate at Chequers.

Informed sources said he will plead with 70,000 striking railroad engineers and firemen to end the transportation tie up that is leading to mass unemployment.

More than 250,000 workers in industries ranging from steel works to perambulator factories are on dismissal notices due to the strike.

Negotiations between the railroad unions and the nationalized railway management were still deadlocked today and neither side planned any new move over the week-end.

Individual Britons, meanwhile, were "pitching in" to ease the crisis.

The Earl of Lanesborough, who owns his own model railroad, offered today to drive real trains.

The 36-year-old nobleman said he learned railroading as an army officer during Second World War.

The British transport commission turned down the offer with thanks.

The government has not yet ordered the use of troops or volunteers to run the railroads.

SIU SUES RAYMENT FOR $100,000 LIBEL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Suit for $100,000 slander damages was launched in supreme court here today by officers of the Seafarers' International Union of North America (AFL-TLC) Canadian District, against Percy Rayment, secretary of Victoria Trades and Labor Council.

The claim, filed by Derek G. G. Lepage, concerns a statement alleged to have been made by Mr. Rayment at a meeting of the Trades and Labor Council in Victoria on April 6.

SIU officers who are suing Rayment personally and for the union are Norman George Cunningham, Donald Ward, O'Reilly, Harry Taylor and Roderick Heinekey, all of Vancouver.

THOMAS PLANS THIRD TRY

Cruel Cold, Powerful Tides Combine to Defeat Gallant Challengers of Stubborn Strait

Cruel cold and stubborn tides spelled finis for two courageous challengers of the Strait of Juan de Fuca early this morning. At 3.20 a.m., ex-Marine Bert Thomas of Tacoma was pulled into his escort boat, still protesting he'd "beat it yet." As consolation, Thomas could claim longer time in Strait's chilly waters than any other swimmer. Shown with Bert seconds after he left the water are Lionel Dickson,

EXPERTS DUBIOUS

Will Strait Ever Be Conquered?

Despite the courageous overnight attempts of Bert Thomas and Pat Russell, some experts are still dubious the Strait of Juan de Fuca can ever be crossed by a swimmer.

Archie McKinnon, who was Florence Chadwick's coach in the original Strait swim last year, said, "They both made a really valiant attempt. But I must be honest; I still think it is a bit too tough. But on that matter I would be quite happy to eat my hat."

A local pilotage authority, who asked that his name be withheld, said, "I must agree with the many people who say that the swim will never be made because of the cold. Both Thomas and Miss Russell did remarkably well but I think that is as close as anyone will ever come to swimming the Strait."

Harold Elworthy, president of Island Tug and Barge, declined comment on any indications the swim may have pointed out but said, "They both made a wonderful showing of a huge undertaking. I am particularly proud of Pat Russell, a Canadian girl who did so well in the face of a terrible ordeal."

Thomas May Make New Attempt To Swim Strait This Week-End

*This figure is the calculated distance the swimmer was from takeoff point when swims end. With tides and winds affecting a swimmer he or she may have actually covered a much greater distance through the water.

(See Pages 3 and 13 for more pictures and detailed swim stories).

After the greatest effort made yet to conquer the bone-chilling Strait of Juan de Fuca Bert Thomas, the husky ex-marine from Tacoma, said today he'll make another attempt, possibly this week-end.

"I'm going at it again. I'm going Sunday if the weather is okay. If not Sunday I'll go Monday," he said.

Thomas finished more than 10 hours in the rugged Strait at 3.22 a.m. today, defeated by wind and tide rather than his own swimming ability and endurance.

He stayed in the water three hours longer than Pat Russell, the UBC co-ed, who took to the water an hour after he did late Friday in a dual challenge on the Strait which gripped the imagination of most Victorians.

Miss Russell was pulled from the water at 1:13 a.m. in a state of exhaustion and mild shock and spent the balance of the night in Jubilee Hospital as a precaution.

However, she suffered no serious ill-effects and her assistant coach, John McDiarmid, said:

"Pat's up and around at the hospital, hollering for us to come and get her."

He said there is a definite possibility she may try again, perhaps in the fall. Originally she planned only one attempt, but after doing so well might make another.

Although the Strait—labelled last year by Florence Chadwick as the "Mount Everest" of swims—remains unconquered, the overnight attempt gripped the imagination of thousands of Victorians.

Many stayed up half the night listening to "stroke by stroke" radio descriptions of the swim.

The amazing performance of Bert Thomas led many observers to believe that, given a real break on weather plus tides, he has a good chance to make the crossing.

He had thought he could make it in about 10 hours, but it appeared his pace was not quite fast enough to take full advantage of the tides.

Although he kept swimming more than that period he still had 7 or 8 miles to go when his navigator Hugh Evans called it off. He was about 12 miles off the Victoria waterfront at that time, but probably had covered considerably more distance through the water. Tide had set in against him and he made little forward progress in the last two hours. A freshening 10-mile-an-hour wind which raised a bit of a chop, did not help.

But he came out of it, though sorely disappointed, in good physical condition with pulse normal despite the 48-degree water and the tension built up by 10 hours of fighting tides and waves.

"There I was," he said this morning, "with a quarter million bucks staring me in the face and I had to pack it up. (He was apparently referring to what he might make as a professional swimmer of world renown.)

"Today I feel great, just a few sore muscles," he said. "I feel too good to sit still. I've got to try again."

"The water was ideal until the last three hours. The cold didn't bother me at all."

Both swimmers were eligible for the Times' $1,000 prize, post-
